IN THE BEE TO-DAY

WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau,
Toledo, O., Sept. 27, 1892.

The storm central over the St. Lawrence valley yesterday morning has moved slowly eastward, and will pass off into the Atlantic ocean. The low area over the extreme northwest has increased slightly in energy, and is now central over Lake Superior; it will move rapidly eastward during the day, and will be central over the St. Lawrence valley. This storm has as yet caused no rains over the country it has crossed.

The area of high barometric pressure has drifted to the eastward and is causing fair and cooler weather over the entire country east of the Mississippi river, and will probably dominate the weather during the next 36 hours.

During the past 24 hours the weather has remained fair in all parts of the country except over the New England states where it has rained.

The temperature has risen over Lakes Michigan and Superior and over the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys. In all other sections it has fallen or remained stationary. The temperature will rise slowly in all sections during the next 48 hours.

Local forecast for Toledo and vicinity. On Tuesday and Wednesday, fair, slowly rising temperature.

Tariff Reform and a Sound Dollar are the Greatest Needs of the People of the United States.

New York, Sept. 27.—The following is Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance of the nomination for president of the United States:

To Hon. William L. Wilson and others, committee, etc.

Gentlemen: In responding to your formal notification of my nomination to the presidency by the national democracy, I hope I may be permitted to say at the outset that continued reflection and observation have confirmed me in my adherence to the opinions which I have heretofore plainly and publicly declared, touching the questions involved in the canvass.

This is a time, above all others, when these questions should be considered in the light afforded by a sober apprehension of the principles upon which our government is based, and a clear understanding of the relation it bears to the people for whose benefit it was created. We shall thus be supplied with a test by which the value of any proposition relating to the maintenance and administration of our government can be ascertained, and by which the justice and honesty of every political question can be judged. If doctrines or theories are presented which do not satisfy this test, loyal Americanism must pronounce them false and mischievous.

The protection of the people in the exclusive use and enjoyment of their property and earnings, concededly constitutes the especial purpose and mission of our free government. This design is so interwoven with the structure of our plan of Three peas (P. P. P.) represent Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are not like the old-fashioned pills. Bad to take, and bad to have taken. Inefficient, too. Try something better. With Pleasant Pellets the benefit is lasting. They cleanse and regulate the liver, stomach and bowels. Taken in time, they prevent trouble. In any case, they cure it.

And they cure it easily; they're mild and gentle, but thorough and effective. There's no disturbance to the system, diet or occupation. One tiny, sugar-coated Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic. Sick and Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

They're purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, the smallest, and the easiest to take—but besides that, they're the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get. This is true only of Dr. Pierce's medicines.

rule that failure to protect the citizen in such use and enjoyment, or their unjustifiable diminution by the government itself, is a betrayal of the people's trust.

We have, however, undertaken to build a great nation upon a plan especially our own. To maintain it and to furnish through its agency the means for the accomplishment of national objects, the American people are willing through federal taxation to surrender a part of their earnings and income.

THE TARIFF IS A TAX,

And the People Who Pay It Have a Right to Regulate It.

Tariff legislation presents a familiar form of federal taxation. Such legislation results as surely in a tax upon the daily life of our people as the tribute paid directly into the hand of the tax gatherer. We feel the burden of these tariff taxes too palpably to be persuaded by any sophistry that they do not exist, or are paid by foreigners.

Such taxes, representing a diminution of the property rights of the people, are only justifiable when laid and collected for the purpose of maintaining our government and furnishing the means for the accomplishment of its legitimate purposes and functions. This is taxation under the operation of a tariff for revenue. It accords with the professions of American free institutions, and its justice and honesty answer the test supplied by a correct appreciation of the principles upon which these institutions rest.

This theory of tariff legislation manifestly enjoins strict economy in public expenditures and their limitation to legitimate public uses, inasmuch as it exhibits as absolute extortion any exaction by way of taxation, from the substance of the people, beyond the necessities of a careful and proper administration of government.

Opposed to this theory the dogma is now boldly presented, that tariff taxation is justifiable for the express purpose and intent of thereby promoting especial interests and enterprises. Such a proposition is so clearly contrary to the spirit of our constitution and so directly encourages the disturbance by selfishness and greed of patriotic sentiment, that its statement would rudely shock our people, if they had not already been insidiously allured from the safe landmarks of principle. Never have honest desire for national growth, patriotic devotion to country, and sincere regard for those who toil, been so betrayed to the support of a pernicious doctrine. In its behalf, the plea that our infant industries should be so fostered, did service until discredited by our stalwart growth; then followed the exigencies of a terrible war, which made our people heedless of the opportunities for ulterior schemes afforded by their willing and patriotic payment of unprecedented tribute; and now after a long period of peace, when our overburdened countrymen ask for relief and a restoration to a fuller enjoyment of their incomes and earnings, they are met by the claim that tariff taxation for the sake of protection is an American system, the continuance of which is necessary in order that high wages may be paid to our workingmen and a home market be provided for our farm products.

These pretenses should no longer deceive. The truth is that such a system is directly antagonized by every sentiment of justice and fairness of which Americans are pre-eminently proud. It is also true that while our workingmen and farmers can, the least of all our people, defend themselves against the harder home life which such tariff taxation decrees, the workingmen suffering from the importation and employment of pauper labor, instigated by his professed friends, and seeking security for his interests in organized co-operation, still waits for a division of the advantages secured to his employer under cover of a generous solicitude for his wages, while the farmer is learning that the prices of his products are fixed in foreign markets, where he suffers from a competition invited and built up by the system he is asked to support.

The struggle for unearned advantage at the doors of the government tramples on the rights of those who patiently rely upon assurances of American equality. Every governmental concession to clamorous favorites invites corruption in political affairs by encouraging the expenditure of money to debauch suffrage in support of a policy directly favorable to private and selfish gain. This in the end must strangle patriotism and weaken popular confidence in the rectitude of republican institutions.

Though the subject of tariff legislation involves a question of markets, it also involves a question of morals. We cannot with impunity permit injustice to taint the spirit of right and equity which is the life of our republic and we shall fail to reach our national destiny if greed and selfishness lead the way.

Recognizing these truths, the national democracy will seek by the application of just and sound principles to equalize to our people the blessings due them from the government they support, to promote among our countrymen a closer community of interests cemented by patriotism and national pride, and to point out a fair field, where prosperous and diversified American enterprise may grow and thrive in the wholesome atmosphere of American industry, ingenuity and intelligence.

Tariff reform is still our purpose. Though we oppose the theory that tariff laws may be passed having for their object the granting of discriminating and unfair governmental aid to private ventures, we wage no exterminating war against any American interests. We believe a readjustment can be accomplished in accordance with the principles we profess, without disaster or demolition. We believe that the advantages of freer raw material should be accorded to our manufacturers, and we contemplate a fair and careful distribution of necessary tariff burdens, rather than the precipitation of free trade.

We anticipate with calmness the misrepresentation of our motives and purposes, instigated by a selfishness which seeks to hold in unrelenting grasp its unfair advantage under present tariff laws. We will rely upon the intelligence of our fellow countrymen to reject the charge that a party comprising a majority of our people is planning the destruction or injury of American interests; and we know they can not be frightened by the specters of impossible free trade.

FEDERAL POWER

Is An Instrument of Popular Will, Not Its Master.

The administration and management of our government depend upon popular will. Federal power is the instrument of that will—not its master.

Therefore the attempt of the opponents of democracy to interfere with and control the suffrage of the states through federal agencies, develops a design, which no explanation can mitigate, to reverse the fundamental and safe relations between the people and their government.

Such an attempt cannot fail to be regarded by thoughtful men as proof of a bold determination to secure the ascendency of a discredited party in reckless disregard of a free expression of the popular will. To repress such a scheme is the impulse of the democracy. At all times and in all places we trust the people. As against a disposition to force the way to federal power, we present to them as our claim to their confidence and support, a steady championship of their rights.

A SOUND DOLLAR,

Whether Gold, Silver or Paper, Is What the People Want.

The people are entitled to sound and honest money abundantly sufficient in volume to supply their business needs. But whatever may be the form of the people's currency, national or state—whether gold, silver or paper—it should be so regulated and guarded by governmental action or by wise and careful laws, that no one can be deluded as to the certainty and stability of its value. Every dollar put into the hands of the people should be of the same intrinsic value or purchasing power. With this condition absolutely guaranteed, both gold and silver can be safely utilized, upon equal terms in the adjustment of our currency.

In dealing with this subject no selfish scheme should be allowed to intervene and no doubtful experiment should be attempted. The wants of our people, arising from the deficiency or imperfect distribution of money circulation, ought to be fully and honestly recognized and efficiently remedied.

It should, however, be constantly remembered that the inconvenience or loss that might arise from such a situation can be much easier borne than the universal distress which must follow a discredited currency.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS

Are But the Trusted Agents of the People.

Public officials are the agents of the people. It is therefore their duty to secure for those whom they represent the best and most efficient performance of public work.

This plainly can best be accomplished by regarding ascertained fitness in the selection of government employes. These considerations alone are sufficient justification for an honest adherence to the letter and spirit of civil service reform. There are, however, other features of this plan which abundantly commend it. Through its operation worthy merit in every station and condition of American life is recognized in the distribution of public employment, while its application tends to raise the standard of political activity from spoils-hunting and unthinking party affiliation to the advocacy of party principles by reason and argument.

AMERICAN PATRIOTISM

Demands That the Soldier Should Be Rewarded and His Family Remembered.

The American people are generous and grateful; and they have impressed these characteristics upon their government. Therefore, all patriotic and just citizens must commend liberal consideration for our worthy and veteran soldiers, and for the families of those who have died.

No complaint should be made of the amount of public money paid to those actually disabled or made dependent by reason of army service. Our pension roll should be a roll of honor, uncontaminated by ill-desert and unvitiated by demagogic use. This is due to those whose worthy names adorn the roll and to all our people who delight to honor the brave and the true. It is also due to those who in years to come should be allowed to hear, reverently and lovingly, the story of American patriotism and fortitude, illustrated by our pension roll. The preferences accorded to veteran soldiers in public employment should be secured to them honestly and without evasion, and when capable and worthy, their claim to the helpful regard and gratitude of their countrymen should be ungrudgingly acknowledged.

SUMPTUARY LAWS

Have No Place in the Creed of Democracy.

The assurance to the people of the utmost individual liberty consistent with peace and good order is a cardinal principle of our government.

This gives no sanction to vexatious sumptuary laws which unnecessarily interfere with such habits and customs of our people as are not offensive to a just moral sense and are not inconsistent with good citizenship and the public welfare. The same principle requires that the line between the subjects which are properly within governmental control and those which are more fittingly left to parental regulation should be carefully kept in view. An enforced education, wisely deemed a proper preparation for citizenship, should not involve the impairment of wholesome parental authority nor do violence to the household conscience. Paternalism in government finds no approval in the creed of democracy. It is a symptom of misrule, whether it is manifested in an unauthorized gift or by an unwarranted control of personal and family affairs.

FREE TRADE

In Immigration Is the Only Thing the Laboring Man Need Fear.

Our people still cherishing the feeling of human fellowship which belonged to our beginning as a nation, require their government to express for them their sympathy with all those who are oppressed under any rule less free than ours.

A generous hospitality which is one of the most prominent of our national characteristics, prompts us to welcome the worthy and industrious of all lands, to home and citizenship among us. This hospitable sentiment is not violated, however, by careful and reasonable regulations for the protection of the public health, nor does it justify the reception of emigrants who have no appreciation of our institutions and whose presence among us is a menace to peace and good order.

IN CONCLUSION.

Democratic Doctrine Tends to Promote the People's Good.

The importance of the construction of the Nicaragua ship canal as a means of promoting commerce between our states and with foreign countries, and also as a contribution by Americans to the enterprises which advance the interests of the world of civilization, should commend the project to governmental approval and indorsement.

Our countrymen not only expect from those who represent them in public places a sedulous care for the things which are directly and palpably related to their material interests, but they also fully appreciate the value of cultivating out national pride and maintaining our national honor.

Both their material interests and their national pride and honor are involved in the success of the Columbian exposition; and they will not be inclined to condone any neglect of effort on the part of their government to insure in the grandeur of this event a fitting exhibit of American growth and greatness and a splendid demonstration of American patriotism.

In an imperfect and incomplete manner, I have thus endeavored to state some of the things which accord with the creed and intentions of the party to which I have given my life-long allegiance. My attempt has not been to instruct my countrymen nor my party, but to remind both that democratic doctrine lies near the principles of our government and tends to promote the people's good. I am willing to be accused of addressing my countrymen upon trite topics and in homely fashion, for I believe that important truths are found on the surface of thought, and that they should be stated in direct and simple terms. Though much is left unwritten, my record as a public servant leaves no excuse of misunderstanding my belief and position on the questions which are now presented to the voters of the land for their decision.

Called for the third time to represent the party of my choice in a contest for the supremacy of democratic principles, my grateful appreciation of its confidences less than ever effaces the solemn sense of my responsibility.

If the action of the convention you represent shall be indorsed by the suffrages of my countrymen, I will assume the duties of the great office for which I have been nominated, knowing full well its labors and perplexities, and with humble reliance upon the Divine being, infinite in power to aid, and constant in a watchful care over a favored nation.

Yours very truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND.
Gray Gables, September 26, 1892.

IN THE BAY STATE.

Democrats Hold a Spirited Convention.

Stirring Speeches by Presiding Officers.

True Democracy As Viewed by the People of Ben Butler's Territory.

Boston, Sept. 27.—The democratic state convention was called to order in Fremont Temple this morning by Jacob Quincy, who spoke as follows:

"Fellow-democrats of Massachusetts: In assuming for the first time the official duty of presiding over your temporary organization, permit me to return my thanks for the confidence with which the party has honored me.

"I trust that I properly appreciate the trusts and responsibilities which have been placed in my hands in connection with our national and state organizations.

"I can only pledge whatever there is of service in me to promote the triumph of democratic candidates and democratic principles, both in the state and nation.

"I bring you to-day words of encouragement and confidence from the national headquarters of our party. Early in the campaign leading republicans conceded that without the electoral votes of New York they could not hope to win. In spite of some complications in the south and in the west, the situation has not changed in this respect.

"There has never been any basis in my judgment for republican claims of carrying New York except the expectation of democratic discord and division. That expectation has already been disappointed. In the face of the common enemy the democrats of New York are fully united; all are now inspired with a common desire to secure democratic success and a common determination to achieve it.

"The inspiration of this union of forces has been felt in every section of the country. In the west the republican party is almost everywhere obliged to fight upon the defensive.

"The wildest republican partisan scarcely ventures to insult the intelligence of the people with the claim that Grover Cleveland is not a safe man to have in the white house. The business and financial interests know that he is a much safer man than the republican president who gave his approval to the silver act of 1890, which stands as such a threatening menace to the soundness of our currency.

"The republican party in its convention this year found itself in a disagreeable dilemma. It had to choose between repeating the disastrous attempt of last year to discredit Gov. Russell's administration and this silent admission that his record is not open to attack and that he is fairly entitled to another re-election.

"I know that it will be answered that this is presidential year and that national issues overshadow state questions. The democratic party certainly does not shirk the discussion of such issues, or minimize their importance, but when the republican party takes the position that all state questions must be absolutely ignored and excluded from this canvass, it is making too open a confession of weakness.

"The people of Massachusetts, proud of their commonwealth and deeply interested in its good government, will not be disposed to exclude as irrelevant, even in a presidential canvass, all questions affecting the records and abilities of the opposing candidates for the highest office within her gift. They will not be disposed to allow their state government to be used as a mere pawn upon the chess board of national politics.

"We challenge the closest scrutiny of his record, even though it be made in the narrow and malicious spirit which the people so emphatically condemned a year ago.

"We demand that the republican party shall either give its approval to that record and concede that the people have no reason for withdrawing their confidence from Gov. Russell and should therefore extend his term of service to the length which has been customary in this commonwealth, or that they shall point out to the people in what respects the administration has neglected their interests and is undeserving of their continued confidence.

"We challenge the official record of Lieut.-Gov. Haile wherever it has come in conflict with that of Gov. Russell, and we propose that it shall be discussed. We charge that in the investigation of Police Commissioner Osborne he give his countenance to a lower standard of official conduct than this commonwealth has heretofore tolerated.

"We uphold the hands of Gov. Russell in his firm resistance to the attempted dictation of appointments by the executive council and in his insistance upon the executive rights to fill an office when the term of the incumbent runs out."

Hon. Charles Theodore Russell was elected permanent chairman and addressed the convention.

After thanking the convention for the honor conferred upon him he said in brief:

"First of all I congratulate you that by the final success of the long-continued and persistent struggle of democracy, Massachusetts in November next will for the first time in her history hold an election in which every citizen will vote because he is a man and not because he holds property or pays a tax.

"We have at last, thank God, reached a point in political progress when the policy and government of our beloved commonwealth are to be hereafter forever settled by manhood and not by poll taxes; by personality and citizenship, and not by property.

"We meet on the eve of a national election to take such measures as will secure democratic success both in the nation and in the state. The democratic party is not a mere personal following. It seeks the election of no man to office for mere personal reasons or purposes, but solely that such election may put into administration principles which the welfare of the country and the greatest good of its people demand.

"Still less does it aim to promote selfish class, or special interest. Its constituency is mainly the industrial masses whose advancement it ever seeks and whose counsels so largely shape its policy. Take the wage earners out of the democratic party and how much of it would be left?

"It is a matter of further especial congratulation that while our party is thus devoted to principles and not men we have as our candidates for president and vice president men who so thoroughly and ably represent those principles as Cleveland and Stevenson—both men whose ability, integrity and character commend them to our support, as well as their devotion to those democratic principles to which they have shown so constant and intelligent an adherence; both men who if they cannot secure the support, at least challenge the respect of their adversaries.

"It has been recently said by a no less distinguished personage than ex-Speaker Reed, and reiterated by numbers of his imitators, that through all this, its long history, the democratic party has been only a party of obstruction and resistance and he substantially declares that that is its appropriate mission and place.

"I beg to remind him that during this same period the democracy has met its opponents in martial array and solid columns in no less than five distinct forms, as federalists, national republicans, whigs, native Americans and modern republicans.

"The modern republicans they find still massed in strength and vigor before them although they seem to have retired from command the gallant knight whose white plume in the past has been so conspicuous.

"Recognizing as its primary duty adherence to the democratic principles of Jefferson, the Chicago convention proceeded to lay down a platform, every line and sentiment of which is in harmony with them.

"One thing at least, the democratic platform has accomplished—it has brought our opponents, in their opposition to it much more definitely to formulate and state their real principles than they have been accustomed to in their own cunningly devised and evasive platforms.

"To-day the democratic party writes upon its banner in letters of glowing light: 'No taxation of the people except to meet the wants and necessities of the government, honestly and economically administered.'

"The republicans have at last succeeded in establishing the general proposition that it is within the power of congress to issue tender notes without limit. The effect of such issue can easily be estimated when we find under it, in the exigencies of the war, that the national currency in which all payments, public and private, were made, saving and excepting those of the revenue duties and bondholders' debts, became payable in a currency at times not worth more than 40 cents on a dollar.

"This currency after the war was by appropriate legislation brought to a par with gold, where it now is. But the republicans immediately commenced its wholesale depreciation."

In conclusion he said: "I make no prophecy, but I feel assured the democrats will try to carry Massachusetts."

The committee on resolutions organized by the selection of Hon. John J. Donavan, ex-mayor of Lowell, as chairman.

CIVIL SERVICE A SHAM.

Paul Rimpler's Case Illustrates the Fact.

Lunacy No Bar to Appointment and Promotion, While Common Sense Is Shut Out—Paul Is Bailed Out.

The arrest of Paul Rimpler on the charge of robbing the mails, as published in the Bee, was no surprise to those who have known Paul's peculiarities for years.

His appointment as substitute carrier last July was a surprise to every one. For several years he has been looked upon as loony, if not altogether crazy.

The idea of placing such a man in a position of trust was looked upon at the time as a rank piece of folly, particularly as a short time before Paul, during one of his "spells," rode away with another man's bicycle, and had it not been for Mr. J. D. Lamson, of Lamson Bros., who went to his rescue, Paul would have had considerable trouble in getting out of the scrape.

A couple of years ago Mrs. Rimpler, a refined and industrious young lady, bought out the cigar stand at the Burnett and placed her husband in charge, but he made a sad failure of the enterprise. Since then Paul has been moping around town of but little use to himself or any one else.

There is nothing bad about Paul, and in his lucid intervals he will be more surprised than anyone else to find that he has been arrested on a charge of theft.

It appears that at the civil service examination for carriers Rimpler stood first out of a class of 25, and so under the rules he was given the first vacancy.

Lunacy is therefore no bar to position under Uncle Sam. There are people under Dr. Tobey's charge who could at certain times pass a better examination and take a higher grade than nine-tenths of the sane people who compete for the loaves and fishes.

Rimpler's case was continued yesterday, U. S. Commissioner Beckham having some doubts of the prisoner's sanity. The hearing was postponed for two weeks.

EX-SENATOR INGALLS.

He Talks on the Decline of His Party.

He Muses on the Disappearance of Iowa's Big Majority for Harrison.

Atchison, Kas., Sept. 27.—Ex-Senator Ingalls has returned from Europe. Speaking of the political outlook in Kansas and the talk of fusion he said:

"It is a singular situation that upon which we have come. Politics is a battle. On the field we use bullets, in the campaign ballots. It is give and take—Sullivan and Corbett. The conflict may be waged unrelentingly. Talk about concessions, alliances, rosewater incense. Do the democrats do it? Every orator on the democratic stump calls the republican party a party of robbers, a party of monopoly, a party of traitors to the constitution, and if a republican twists the knives between their ribs they squeal and beg.

"I sometimes wonder what became of the democrats of two years ago. I wonder what became of the 80,000 majority which we gave to Harrison.

"In the cataclysm which followed, in which everything seemed to be elected, myself included, for I went out of sight, surpassing the cow which jumped over the moon, there was a complete change and the democratic party in particular was lost to view.

"What a change in two years. I am for winning back the sheep which strayed from the fold. The old soldiers who were induced to go away must be found and be taken by the hand and led back. Let there be an awakening. I have not been back long enough to find out what is going on. I do not pretend to speak advisedly and my views as I have expressed them to you are subject to modification as the situation may have changed.

THOUGHT IT WAS CHOLERA.

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 27.—Last night State Health Officer Dr. R. M. Swearinger forwarded a report to Gov. Hogg, in which he stated that he had attended two cases of suspected cholera. One was Samuel Harris, who died September 25. The other was Charles Hausler, who came from Germany via Havre. Hausler is improving, but the doctor believes he has sporadic cholera.

SHOT THE MAYOR.

A "Speak Easy" Proprietor's Murderous Deed.

He Fired Through the Court Room Window Where His Wife Was on Trial.

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 27.—Mayor John J. Martin was shot yesterday by R. P. Harr, the keeper of a "speak easy," who fired at him through the court room window while his wife was being tried for selling liquor without a license.

Harr escaped, but subsequently surrendered and was jailed.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY.

Staunton, Va., Sept. 27.—Valuable discoveries of onyx at Bridgewater, Rockingham county, were made recently by J. W. Click and others. The onyx was found to be abundant and of superior quality and a syndicate of Boston capitalists have purchased the property at $9,000.

G. W. CURTIS' WEALTH.

Greenfield, Mass., Sept. 27.—The estate of the late George William Curtis, according to the will filed in the probate court yesterday, amounts to about $70,000.

BLEW OFF HIS HEAD.

Sensational Shooting in Washington.

Col. W. P. Canaday Commits Suicide.

He Is Suspected by His Partner of Having Stolen Some Money.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Col. W. P. Canaday, ex-sergeant-at-arms of the U. S. senate, committed suicide this morning by blowing out his brains in his room, No. 712 Tenth street, N. W. Since his retirement from the senate Col. Canaday has been engaged in a general brokerage business in partnership with J. Q. A. Houghton, who furnished the financial resources of the firm. Mr. Houghton said he was awakened early this morning by a colored man who brought him a message that Col. Canaday desired to see him at the office. Since his connection with Canaday and the business Mr. Houghton said he had invested $17,000 in the concern, $2,000 of which he had placed in the safe only last night. His suspicions were aroused that the messenger had something to do with that money, and when he arrived at the office he found he was not mistaken.

Col. Canaday stated to him that he had been awakened by three colored men, between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning, who, with revolvers at his head, compelled him to open the safe. The burglars, Col. Canaday said, had obtained entrance by breaking the window pane with a railroad spike. After securing the money the robbers gagged the colonel, using for the purpose a piece of his night robe. They then bound him to the door of the office after tying his hands and feet. This was the story told to Mr. Houghton, who promptly declared his disbelief of the tale and left, after warning Col. Canaday that he intended to procure a warrant for his arrest.

The story as told by a Mr. Stevenson, whose apartments in the house are above Canaday's office is that some time before 4 o'clock this morning he was awakened by a tapping sound and immediately after he heard a voice asking him to come down stairs. This was repeated several times. Mr. Stevenson hurried down to the room below and found Col. Canaday bound to a closet door in the room. In an excited tone he asked to be cut loose. This being done, Col. Canaday was asked the cause of his unusual position. He replied: "Robbers, look on the floor."

Mr. Stevenson glanced down and saw a number of charred papers. Col. Canaday told him that robbers had overpowered him and burglarized his effects. The police were summoned, to whom Col. Canaday related the same story.

An examination of the premises showed that the window through which the burglars obtained entrance, as claimed by Col. Canaday, had been smashed into fragments. The things used to hold Col. Canaday to the door were pieces of binding twine tied loosely about his knees, ankles, wrists and elbows.

The gag was poorly arranged in his mouth and he had no difficulty in raising his voice so that he could be heard by the boarders in the story above.

Col. Canaday, after giving his version of the story to the police, retired to his private room in the office and dressed himself and then sent the message to his partner, Mr. Houghton.

After the scene between them he returned to the office and about 7:39 he was found by the police who had come to serve the warrant sworn out by Houghton, stretched on a cot in a corner of the room with a bullet hole in his head. The bedding and floor about the colonel were a mass of blood and floor about the colonel were a clear through his head and was embedded in the wall.

A note was found written by Col. Canaday to Mr. Houghton, saying: "After your conduct this morning I have no further use for life."

Another note was left by the suicide said to have been addressed to a lady which the police have and will not make public until the inquest.

It is said the charred papers found on the floor represent notes, bonds, stocks and other commercial paper of the value of $100,000.

Col. Canaday has been separated for several years from his wife, who with her only son, a young boy, lives at Wilmington, N. C., and rumor connects his name with that of a young woman who has been in his employ.

The police are looking for her, in the belief that she may be able to tell something of the whereabouts of the $2,000 that disappeared last night.

Col. Canaday had been in financial trouble for some time. This was the cause of his retirement from the office of sergeant-at-arms of the senate.

Col. Canaday was a native of North Carolina and after the war took a prominent part in politics. For a number of years he was a member of the national committee, serving until the Minneapolis convention.

ARRIVED IN NEW YORK.

The Remains of P. S. Gilmore.

The Friends of the Dead Musician Turn Out in Large Numbers at the Grand Central.

New York, Sept. 27.—The body of Patrick S. Gilmore arrived at the Grand Central depot this morning.

On the funeral train accompanying the body were Mrs. P. S. Gilmore and her daughter Minnie; the committee of three from the Gilmore band, Lawrence O'Reilly, Wm. Schultz and Herman Schultz, and three directors of the Musical Protective association, who met the train at Pokeepsie this morning.

Long before the time the train was due crowds of friends and associates of the dead leader had gathered at the depot.

At 8 o'clock the train arrived. Musicians had formed in two long lines from the train to the waiting carriages without. Behind these lines crowding every corner of the spacious depot and the street were thousands of people who stood with uncovered heads from the moment of the train's arrival.

After Mrs. Gilmore and her daughter had passed to their carriage the coffin containing the remains of the famous band master was taken from the car and carried to the hearse waiting without.

As the head of the funeral train reached the entrance to the depot the soft and solemn notes of the "Lost Chord" filled the vast enclosure and continued until the procession moved away.

The remains were driven directly to the late home of the deceased where they will remain until the funeral. Secretary Hunt, of the Musical union, said Mrs. Gilmore had consented to a military funeral to take place to-morrow.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning, but no arrangements have yet been made, as it was not known until this morning that Mrs. Gilmore would consent to the funeral suggested as a token of mourning for their beloved member.

CHANGES IN BASE BALL

A Big Hen On in the National League.

Griffin Wins the Fight at Coney Island.

Interesting News of Diamond, Ring and Turf Gathered by Bee Correspondents.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 27.—A preliminary meeting of base ball magnates will soon be held, probably in this city, to arrange a plan for making great changes in base ball.

The work will be done at the big meeting in November, but at the preliminary the changes will be agreed upon. It is pretty well settled that three big changes will be made.

The length of the ball season will be cut from seven to six months.

The eastern clubs will each make two western trips of three games with each clubs and the western clubs will do the same in the east.

The second change will be the discontinuation of the double championship series. It is not popular with the public, the players, or the managers, and a fight will be made to have one championship series straight through.

The third proposed change is the discontinuation of "double headers," that is, playing a regular and postponed game the same afternoon.

The fault with this is that when a double game is played the attendance the next day falls flat. To make up for the double-headers the managers will discuss the advisability of setting apart one day each week as ladies' day. Manager Bancroft, it is said, will suggest the discontinuance of the bunt hit and bat and the wearing of gloves by all players save the catcher and first baseman. It is also stated that the 12-club league must go, and that Sunday ball will be played in Chicago.

Coney Island, N. Y., Sept. 27.—The fight between Johnny Griffin, of Braintree, Mass., and Jimmie Lynch, of New York, for $2,500 and the featherweight championship (122 pounds), drew a big crowd to the Coney Island Athletic club last night. Betting on the fight early in the day was from $100 to $60 to $100 to $80 in favor of Griffin, a strong Boston contingent offering a quantity of money on him. After the usual preliminaries the boys were quickly put to their work.

Round 1—Lynch rushed Griffin to the ropes and punched him hard. Again Lynch rushed his man and hammered him well. Griffin got in a left on Lynch's cheek. Clinch followed clinch and hard infighting ensued.

Round 2—Griffin opened by leading left and right for Lynch's stomach. The hardest kind of fighting followed. Griffin went at Lynch in terrific style and soon had his antagonist groggy. The fighting was furious while it lasted and it was one to three that Lynch could not recover. He went against the ropes and lay there. Griffin went at him and thumped and hammered him. Lynch, however, came out of it like a game cock, but it was easily seen that he was not in it.

Round 3—Griffin appeared to have a cinch on Lynch. He knocked him down four times. The first couple of times Lynch was knocked outside the ropes, but he always got back in time and made a good enough fight to cause the crowd to yell like madmen.

Round 4—Lynch, under Choynski's wonderful handling, came out from his corner and assumed the aggressive. Griffin was in on him with left and right on the stomach and Lynch again became groggy. Griffin knocked him down with a right-hander on the ear and once again Jimmy sought the floor from a left-handed smash on the neck. For a third time Lynch went down under a swing on the nose and the New Yorker was out of it, though he came up gamely every time. The house rose en masse on every recovery that he made and cheered him wildly.

Round 5—Lynch came up bravely and let go left and right on Griffins face, but his blows were ineffectual. Griffin put him on the floor three times. Lynch got up twice, but the third time he was done and could not do so again. Griffin had sailed into him with both hand and won the fight. Five rounds were enough for the gamest man that has stood in the arena for the Coney Island club.

Griffin was awfully tired when he got through. He had a cut eye, a bloody nose, and a much punched mouth. Lynch had a bad eye, a swollen nose and bulging lips. His stomach, too, was red and sore.

After the fight Griffin challenged Geo. Dixon to fight at 118 pounds, weigh in six hours before entering the ring, the same terms as that Dixon made with Jack Skelly.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 27.—Dispatches from Lexington Ky., state that Mike Bowerman had wired Budd Doble offering to trot Moquette against Nancy Hanks at the Lexington meeting, providing that association would put up the same money for the race that had been asked by Doble for an exhibition mile. The Lexington dispatch further stated that Doble had replied he would not start Hanks against any horse in the world.

These statements are contrary to the facts in the case as is shown by the dispatches received and sent by Doble. Bowerman did wire Doble that he would trot Moquette against Hanks if the Lexington association would give for the heat race what had been asked by Doble for the exhibition mile. Mr. Doble replied as follows: "Will not trot Hanks against any horse for anything like the amount you name, but will trot Martha Wilkes with you for that amount, winner to take all or two-thirds."

Doble had previous been asked by the Lexington association for terms, but they were not agreed upon. The Lexington dispatch seeks to make it appear that Doble is afraid to meet Moquette with Hanks, when the real facts are that he will trot Hanks against any horse in the world if the stake be made sufficiently large, but he will not match the mare to go a race of heats for the same money that nearly every association in the country would gladly offer for an exhibition mile only.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The committee in charge of the big dedication day bicycle tournament, to be held October 21 and 22, at Washington park, reports that the park management are putting the track in record-breaking shape. Twenty thousand invitations will be mailed to prominent men all over the country, horsemen in particular, to see Nancy Hank's record of 2:07 1-4, made on this famous track, broken. Zimmerman will go against his own record, with flying start, 2:06 4-5, with wheelmen as pacemakers, and also against Johnson's 1:56 3-5 with running horses as pacemakers. Johnson will be here and if his time is beaten will make an effort to recover the record.

THE COUNCILMEN

Had Hard Work to Get a Quorum Together.

At the Regular Meeting Last Night—Crematory Discussion—Gas Rate Ordinance Laid Over.

Last night's session of the councilmen's board was a nondescript one in a good many ways. When the meeting was called to order by President Coleman at about 8:15, there were only enough members present to constitute a quorum sufficiently large to come to order and pass resolutions; and it was nearly 10 o'clock before the sergeant-at-arms had gathered in enough members to act upon the ordinances.

The features of the meeting were side discussions of the merits and demerits of the alleged boodle cases on the one hand, and definite action in regard to a crematory for garbage on the the other.

Shortly before adjournment things livened up a little. Messrs. Lee and Gill had a spat over the appointment of the crematory committee. The latter moved in a sarcastic manner that the name of some other councilman be substituted for that of Mr. Lee on this committee. Mr. Lee replied that it would be impossible to send Mr. Gill on the investigating trip as his time would be taken up in the common pleas court.

Routine Business.

A resolution was adopted instructing the janitor to clean the windows in the city auditor's office.

Two resolutions offered by Mr. Osborne were adopted. The first one provided for the paving of Sixteenth street from Adams to Washington, and the other provided for the boring of an artesian well at the corner of Monroe street and Lawrence avenue. This well is designed for the use of the children of the Monroe street school.

Mr. Schmuhl offered a resolution, which was adopted, directing the Lake Shore railroad company to put all its bridges in the city limits in good repair.

The mayor, city solicitor and president of the board of councilmen were, by resolution, instructed to destroy certain illegal gas bonds of the value of about $600,000 which are now in the city auditor's office.

Two resolutions to bore artesian wells in East Toledo were vetoed by the mayor because the proper certificates from the city auditor were not attached to them.

Resolutions were also adopted directing the city clerk to advertise for bids for the boring of an artesian well at the corner of Oak and Second streets, and also at the corner of Stickney avenue and Norton street.

W. H. Garretson, of San Antonio, Tex., was introduced for the purpose of explaining the operation of the garbage crematories at that place. He made a proposition to burn all the common garbage for 10 cents per ton and the night soil for 50 cents per ton. He also offered to build two furnaces for $2,000. He said he would defray the expenses of a council committee if it would go to San Antonio to witness the operation of the crematories there.

President Coleman was, by resolution, instructed to appoint a committee of two for that purpose, and he appointed Messrs. Lee and Schmidt. Mr. Neuendorf wanted the committee increased to five, but his motion did not prevail. The mayor and health officer will accompany this committee.

Afterwards Mr. Gill moved a reconsideration of the above resolution, but the motion was lost by a vote of 8 to 7.

The ordinance fixing the price of natural gas was laid on the table for two weeks, as was the resolution directing the street commissioner to build a catch basin at the northeast corner of Michigan and Walnut streets.

The resolution rejecting the abatement of assessment claims of Lucy Leighton, A. S. Parker and the Sisters of Charity was referred back to the judiciary committee, and the resolution to rescind a resolution for the improvement of Wisconsin street was laid on the table.

WEIR'S DEATH.

It Is Still Causing Trouble in the East.

Man and Woman Arrested for Stealing the Deceased's Personal Property.

New York, Sept. 27.—Mrs. Henry Marsh and James McIntosh, who are said to be from Pittsburg, were arrested on a charge of grand larceny preferred by Harry Fehl, who says he is the administrator of Gamble Weir, of Pittsburg, who died in January.

He alleges that Mrs. Marsh and McIntosh disappeared with several thousand dollars' worth of personal property, jewelry and diamonds which belonged to Weir. The police made a thorough search of their house at No. 100 Beach street, Stapleton, and it is believed some of the missing jewels were recovered.

It is also intimated that the prisoners know something of the death of Mr. Weir, which was caused by poison.

THE PRESS OF THE LAND

What Leading Newspapers of the States

Have to Say on Cleveland's Letter.

Comment From Democratic and Republican Papers Gathered for Readers of the Bee.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The Herald (dem.) says editorially this morning: "In strong and gratifying contrast to President Harrison's long and prolix essay of acceptance is Mr. Cleveland's letter. In style it shows a distinct improvement upon the former public utterances of the democratic candidate. There is nothing in this letter that can be misunderstood—nothing that does not in fact, insist upon making itself understood.

The Inter-Ocean (rep.) says: "Grover Cleveland has at last given to the world his letter of acceptance. The careful readers will look in vain for evidence in the letter as to why it should have been delayed so long. It certainly it not a great production. In fact, it is evident that the beauties and advantages of free trade were too much for his unsympathetic and phlegmatic pen. It is more at home with words of denunciation than those of commendation and mostly relies on reiterating the stale diatribes against protection.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The Times says: Recognizing the issue framed by his party and accepted by the opposition, Mr. Cleveland proceeds with pleasing directness to make clear his position on the question of tariff taxation. He takes issue squarely with his opponents by accepting the platform of his party and denying the right of government to levy taxes for the purpose of enriching private individuals and corporations.

Nashville.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 27.—American: "It is the letter of a statesman discussing grave matters in language plain and simple. It boils down the issues and presents them in a manner appealing to the sober thought of thinking men. It is a sound and able exposition of democratic doctrines."

Louisville.

Louisville, Sept. 27.—Courier-Journal: "The letter of acceptance which Mr. Cleveland sends out is a calm, conservative document. He takes no step backward upon the great issue of tariff reform, but argues the question in a thoroughly statesmanlike way upon the line laid down by the Chicago platform. In this regard he leaves nothing to be misunderstood or misconstrued."

Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Sept. 27.—The Enquirer says: "The style is clear and treatment vigorous and yet withal the utterance is modest. The attempt is not to tell the party what it should do but briefly to outline what it has done. It is essentially a democratic document.

Detroit.

Detroit, Sept. 27.—The Free Press (dem.) says: "Clear, concise, dignified and statesmanlike is Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance. In it all there is no suggestion of demagogy, no appeal to passion or political prejudice."

The Tribune (rep.) says: "Mr. Cleveland's letter is that of a self seeking politician bidding for votes. It is not the bold, clear, unmistakable utterance of a leader.

Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Sept. 27.—The Journal (rep.) says Cleveland has written too many letters of acceptance of presidential nominations. His third effort in that line is the feeblest of the series.

Columbus.

Columbus, Sept. 27.—The State Journal rep.): Cleveland gives nothing new on silver, straddles and disagrees with his party on tariff and civil service.

Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Sept. 27.—The Tribune (rep.): Mr. Cleveland makes a gallant struggle to keep within hailing distance of the platform prepared for him at Chicago by Col. Watterson without stultifying himself and the result is a rather more ingenious bit of work than Senator Hill has yet done in the same line.

New York.

New York, Sept. 27.—Following are comments on Mr. Cleveland's letter:

Herald: The letter has the merit of comparative brevity, being hardly half the length of Mr. Harrison's. It is not an argument, but a statement. It is not a ringing document, but a calm summary of views in plain language that will appeal to and doubtless influence the thinking masses.

The Staats Zeitung: Mr. Cleveland stands frank and free on the democratic platform; he goes back on it not one step. His true sticking to the letter and spirit of civil service reform will satisfy the most laborious defender of this reform.

Tribune: It is not for what it says or omits to say on minor topics that the letter of Mr. Cleveland will be judged. He rightly treats the tariff question as more directly involved in the election than any other, and devotes more than half of his space to a painfully labored and weak effort to smooth over the rugged declaration of his party, the uncompromising measures to which it committed itself, and his own aggressive and vigorous utterances prior to the Rhode Island election. It seems to be the truth that Mr. Cleveland learned something from the stunning democratic defeat which followed his speech in Providence. Apparently they tell the truth who say that Mr. Cleveland was correctly represented at the last national convention by those who wanted to evade and dodge the very issue upon which his nomination had been demanded. This, at least, is certain: his latest utterance will not gratify those who have rejoiced in his "fearless zeal for reform." It is much to be doubted whether it will moderate the antagonism of a single believer in the defense and maintenance of American industries.

World—The letter of Grover Cleveland is like the man—strong, straightforward, sensible, honest. It takes up the issues of the canvass in their order and defines his own and the democratic position upon them simply, clearly, and in a manner to leave no doubt in any candid mind as to his convictions or his party's purpose. Mr. Cleveland's statements of the objects, powers, and limitations of our republican government is Jeffersonian in its philosophy and Jacksonian in its expression.

Boston.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 27.—Journal (republican)—The American people like sincerity and courage. They find neither in the letter in which the democratic candidate for president discusses the great issues of the national election. The hesitating equivocation of Grover Cleveland on the tariff and the currency is in sharp contrast with the straightforward manliness of Benjamin Harrison.

The Globe (democrat)—It is in itself an inspiring platform. It is a declaration of high principles which will gain wide attention and arouse enthusiasm everywhere. Mr. Cleveland's concise letter will be read by thousands who had not patience to peruse the long drawn out platitudes of Mr. Harrison's wearisome offering.

The Post (democrat)—His letter is a model of frank, honest, and straightforward sense; and this is the best and highest statesmanship. It appeals directly to the understanding of an intelligent people.

Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 27.—Appeal-Avalanche (dem.): Cleveland's letter is marked by his usual lucidity and forcefulness of style. It is the paper of a tried statesman and loyal partisan. He makes the issues clear. The letter fits into the platform adopted at Chicago and as a sound interpretation of the democratic position will be accepted by democrats everywhere.

New Orleans.

New Orleans, Sept. 27.—Times-Democrat: It is a terse and weighty document. It is permeated with a spirit of broad statesmanship and its excursions into the field of living topics are marked everywhere with wise thought and philosophic sentiment and they are couched in much power and grace of language.

BALLOTING AGAIN.

The Second Alabama Democrats Are Game.

Evergreen, Ala., Sept. 27.—The democratic congressional convention in the Second district assembled here to-day for the purpose of nominating a candidate to succeed Hilary A. Herbert, who has declined a renomination. The convention has already balloted 136 times without result, the last ballot on September 16, resulting, Tompkins 29, Stallings, 28, Wiley 10.

This is a Herbert district, and although he declines a renomination it is believed that the use of his name alone will break the dead-lock.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

Howard, S. D., Sept. 27.—A fire supposed to have been started by children yesterday swept the whole eastern side of the business street, causing a loss of about $100,000; insurance $30,000. R. B. Allen's mother and wife, an old couple, lost their lives in saving household goods.

AMUSEMENTS.

An Immense Audience Witnesses "Jane."

The Wilburs Open to Big Business at the People's—Attractions at Wonderland.

A large and fashionable audience filled Wheeler's opera house to overflowing last evening and was highly entertained by that rollicking comedy "Jane." This piece was seen here last season and made a big hit. Its plot has been printed many times and does not need comment as its merit is well known. Of late years there has been a surfeit of knock-about farce, and a clear-cut comedy like "Jane," with genuine humor of high order, comes like a sparkling brook in the midst of a desert.

The character of Jane was essayed by Miss Grace Sherwood, and she makes a decided success of the part, being a bright and clever actress, with a handsome face and figure. Her interpretation of the part is somewhat different from that of Johnstone Bennett, as she has not the masculine swagger of that actress. Miss Sherwood has a delightful way of her own, however, and Jane loses nothing in her hands.

Herbert Forster, was excellent in the part of Charles Shakelton, and Alf Fisher made a typical English servant in the part of William. The whole cast is in the hands of good people and well balanced, the other parts being taken by Al Harris, as Mr. Kershaw; Arthur Boylan, as Claude; Wm. Henderson as Pyton; Frances Stevens, as Lucy Norton; John Findley, as Mrs. Chadwick, and Emily Dodd, as Mrs. Pyton.

The only thing to mar the performance was the miserable stage setting, one of the oldest and dingiest of Wheeler's stock scenes being used. The stage looked more like a dingy back kitchen that a gentleman's dining room, and much unfavorable comment was made on this point.

"Jane" was preceded by a one-act curtain raiser, entitled "Chums." This was participated in by Messrs. Fisher and Forster and Misses Stevens and Sherwood, and was well received.

The Wilburs.

The comic opera with its mingle of comedy, burlesque, specialties, pretty faces, dazzling costumes and good music, is the attraction at the People's this week, produced by the Wilbur opera company.

The "Black Hussar" drew a large audience last evening and the entertainment was all that could have been desired.

The familiar face of vivacious Susie Kirwin is missing from the cast, but Dorothy Morton steps into the favorite's place and, with a good voice and clever acting keeps up enthusiasm at the old time pace.

The cast on a whole is as good, if not better, than ever before. The specialties are new and catchy. Edward Brown, in his performance on the harmonica, or mouth organ as the boys say, made a great hit.

The grand march of the Hussars is the Amazonian, pure and simple, but it is pretty and the costumes are rich and beautiful.

Boccacio this evening.

Wonderland.

There were plenty of visitors at Wonderland yesterday and they were treated to a good bill of amusement, which will be continued during the week. The attractions in curio hall are every entertaining and consist of an illusion called Rolla, which is the old half lady illusion in a new form; Texas Jack is a one-armed cowboy who whittles curious articles with a jackknife, and Hamlin performs a daring feat by walking bare foot on the sharp edges of a dozen knives, and Professor Kreiger, an eccentric little Russian, gives an excellent exhibiton of magic and legerdemain and is one of the cleverest men in his line that has been seen in this city.

Lillie Western, the musical phenomenon and Charles Diamond, the famous Milanese minstrel, are the stars of the theater program, the balance being of the usual knock about song and dance order, but affords plenty of fun.

DEFAULTER ARRESTED.

New Orleans, Sept. 27.—W. R. Crossett, of Hope, Ark., whence he is a fugitive from justice, was arrested last night in a broker's office and jailed. He defaulted with $21,000 of the Hope school district funds.

City Auditor's Office.

Toledo, O., Sept. 27, 1892.

The Committee on Ways and Means of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned invite sealed proposals at this office to at 7 o'clock p. m. for the purchase of street improvement bonds to the amount of Seven Thousand Eight Hundred and Seventy 37-100 ($7,870.37-100) Dollars, bearing date Oct. 31, 1892, and payable as follows: Six Hundred and Seventy 37-100 Dollars on April 30, 1893, and Eight Hundred Dollars at the expiration of every six months thereafter, to and including October 31, 1897, at the office of the city treasurer with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said improvement bonds are issued pursuant to section 2704 to 2707 of the revised statutes of the state of Ohio, and also under an Ordinance of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio. "To provide for the issue of Improvement Bonds to pay the cost and expense of the improvement of Lagrange street, from Champlain street to Bancroft street."—Passed Sept. 21, 1892.

The denomination of these bonds will be first payment one bond of $670.37-100 and thereafter one of $800 each payment.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the bonds, so bid for, as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the law and ordinances. When the bids have been examined, and the award made according to law, all monies or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the city auditor subject to his call, except that of the successful bidder which shall be held and considered, and accepted as part payment of the bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the city of Toledo, and shall become the property of said city, in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Proposals should be addressed to the "Auditor of the city of Toledo, Ohio," and be endorsed "Proposals for Improvement Bonds."

City Auditor's Office.

Toledo, O., Sept. 27, 1892.

The Committee on Ways and Means of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned invite sealed proposals at this office to at 7 o'clock p. m. for the purchase of Street Improvement Bonds to the amount of Seven Thousand Four Hundred and Thirty-six 05-100 ($7,436.05-100) Dollars, bearing date Oct. 5, 1892, and payable as follows: Six Hundred and Eighty-six 05-100 Dollars on April 3, 1893, and Seven Hundred and Fifty Dollars at the expiration of every six months thereafter, to and including October 3, 1897, at the office of the city treasurer with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said improvement bonds are issued pursuant to section 2704 to 2707 of the revised statutes of the state of Ohio, and also under an Ordinance of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio. "To provide for the issue of Improvement Bonds to pay the cost and expense of the improvement of Lafayette street, from Fifteenth street to Division street."—Passed Sept. 14, 1892.

The denomination of these bonds will be first payment one bond of $686.05-100 and thereafter one of $750 each payment.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the bonds, so bid for, as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the law and ordinances. When the bids have been examined, and the award made according to law, all monies or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the city auditor subject to his call, except that of the successful bidder which shall be held and considered, and accepted as part payment of the bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the city of Toledo, and shall become the property of said city, in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Proposals should be addressed to the "Auditor of the city of Toledo, Ohio," and be endorsed "Proposals for Improvement Bonds."

A STORY LIKE MANY.

Will Intensely Interest Women.

"I used to be so healthy and strong, and now although still young, I am all used up—weak nerves, weak back, weak and tired all over. I am utterly discouraged, and weary of life." The husband soothed his weeping wife, assuring her that there was still hope—that there must certainly be a cure.

And so there is.

If you feel nervous, dull, tired, languid, low-spirited, lifeless and miserable, experience a faintness, sense of fullness or bloating after eating, have irregular appetite, constipated bowels, frequent headaches, wakeful, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, with weak back, backache, dragging-down pains, irregularities, falling, etc., go instantly to the nearest drug store and get a bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remdy, which is the greatest boon to women ever discovered, and by its use be restored to sound, healthy and vigorous womanhood.

You need it now, and you need not fear to use it, for it is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless, and it will bring back strength to your nerves, freshness to your complexion, brightness to your eyes, the bloom of health to your cheeks, elasticity and spring to your step, and that happiness and enjoyment of life which you have missed so long.

"I had a very bad leucorrhea all the time, suffered great pain at my periods, and was very pale and delicate—had no color. Am now all well, thanks to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. My face is plump and cheeks red, and my complexion pure. When I began the use of this great remedy, I only weighed 81 pounds, now I weigh 115 pounds, and am still gaining. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is a wonderful medicine. I have not had any trouble since I began taking it. Mrs. Mary Francis Lytle, 2 Hunter Alley, Rochester, N. Y."

Dr. Greene, the most successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, 35 W. 14th street, New York, can be consulted free, personally or by letter. Call or write him about your case or send for symptom blank to fill out, and a letter fully explaining your disease, giving advice, etc., will be returned free.

THE BEDFORD FAIR.

It Opens with Bright Prospects of Success.

Bedford, Mich., Sept. 27.—(Special)—With the dawn of to-day the Bedford Farmers' Fair association commenced their fifth annual fair, and never in its history has the outlook for a successful termination been brighter and better.

The entries in all the various departments are exceedingly large. Many new and interesting features have been added, extensive improvements to the grounds made and attention given to securing special attractions.

The universal approval and satisfaction of the thousands of people who have visited the fair in years past speak for a great and largely increased success this year.

The entire exhibit will be in by to-morrow, and the regular routine will then be taken up.

The association has planned the best program for the entire fair ever offered by the society.

The political days will be as follows: Wednesday, democratic day, Hon. Ralph E. Hoyt, of Chicago, speaker.

Thursday forenoon, people's party, Hon. John Seitz, of Tiffin, O., speaker.

Afternoon, republican, Hon. Cyrus G. Luce and Jas. O'Donnell, speakers.

Friday, prohibition party, Rev. John Russell, speaker.

People desirous of visiting the fair from Toledo can do so by taking the street car to the Old Ladies' home and West Toledo, where a bus will take them to the grounds.

To-Night's Concert.

Toledo Teutonia Maennerchor's Columbia concert occurs at Wheeler's this evening. For months preparations and rehearsals have been going on to make the affair a success, and it undoubtedly will be. The program, which is printed in the Bee, will give information as to the rare treat in store. The organization should have the cordial support of Toledo lovers of music, and anything short of a packed house to-night will be a disappointment.

Went Over Another Day.

The police court judge has continued until to-morrow the case against S. D. Madge, and wife, who were tried yesterday for failing to comply with certain orders of the health department. It was continued to give the judge more time to look up the law on the subject. The cases against Geo. Hersing, A., G. K. and A. K. Detwiler were also continued pending a decision in the action against the Madges, which is conceded to be a test case. The action against Chas. Benna, arrested for a similar violation, was marked off the docket.

To-day's Police Court Record.

In police court this morning W. W. Thompson, J. B. Howe, Geo. Ireland, Jas. Carroll and John English respectively, paid the costs for being drunk. Wm. and Bertie Smith, who were charged with disturbance forfeited $15 bail each. Thos. Evers and James Glass, two boys charged with vagrancy were given one hour in which to leave town. The case of Christopher Weis, arrested for abusing his family, was continued until to-morrow, as were the cases of Dan McCarthy and Balbina Ryborgy, who were arrested for assault and battery. H. A. Goodrich was fined $10, the costs and given a 10 days' sentence for petit larceny.

Plasterer Injured on an Elevator.

James McGlynn, a plasterer who resides at 544 West Washington street, met with a serious accident in the dry goods store of Lamson Bros. at about 1 o'clok this morning.

McGlynn was plastering the elevator walls, and while doing so tried to lower the elevator in order to continue his work. He didn't understand how to manipulate the check ropes, however, and the elevator attained such a speed that McGlynn lost control of it and in some manner was crushed against either the floor or the walls, and severely injured about the head. Dr. Duncan was called in and he had the injured man taken to St. Vincent's hospital.

A Bee Banquetted.

George W. Stevens, of the Toledo Bee, formerly of the Press, was given a complimentary dinner at the La Fayette hotel Saturday evening by a party of his old newspaper associates and other friends in this city, says the Utica (N. Y.) Press. The dinner was served in Landlord Murphy's best style, and was heartily enjoyed. The party subsequently repaired to the Clionian club where the evening was finished with informal social entertainment of the most pleasing character. Many good songs were sung and many amusing recitations were rendered. Mr. Stevens' talent in this direction contributed largely to the enjoyment of the occasion. To-day Mr. Stevens goes to New York for a week's visit. He will stop here again on his return to Toledo. He will be always sure of a welcome in his old home.

Sunday School Superintendents' Union.

The Sunday School Superintendents' union of this city met last evening at the First Congregational church, and was largely attended. The president, Marion Lawrance, conducted devotional exercises, followed by the secretary's report, which was read and accepted.

Papers on "How to Obtain Punctuality and Regularity in Attendance" were read by Mrs. M. R. Davis and Mrs. W. L. Rowland. A general discussion then ensued.

A committee, composed of the executive board, were instructed to make arrangements for an entertainment.

C. J. Brindler, district president, and L. D. Boyer, of Swanton, state president of the Sunday school organization, were present.

The next meeting will be held October 21 at the First Presbyterian church.

Musicale at North Toledo.

Dr. Fisher vs. Dr. Hammer,

The case of Dr. Fisher, of the health board, against Dr. Hammer, a prominent homeopathic physician of Broadway, Fifth ward, for alleged failure to report the alleged case of typhoid fever from which Mrs. Daniel Segur, of Bancroft street, now in health, is alleged to have recovered, came up in police court this morning. It was set for hearing yesterday morning and adjourned to this morning. Its circumstances are the arrest of Dr. Hammer, last Saturday, under the accusation that he had failed to report to the health board this case.

Dr. Hammer was present with Dr. Gaylord and Dr. Goodwin, and his attorney, Geo. P. Kirby. Dr. Fisher was attended by Sanitary Policeman George White, who swore out the warrant and made the affidavit for the arrest of Dr. Hammer. Mrs. Rosa L. Segur, mother-in-law and nurse of the recovered patient, and Mr. B. F. Sawyer, her father, were also present; Mr. Daniel Segur, the husband of the lady, being prevented by business from attendance.

After considerable delay Prosecutor Wheeler announced that the city was not ready to try the case to-day. Mr. Kirby stated that the defendant, at great inconvenience to himself, his many patients and his witnesses, was present and ready for trial. Judge Sala stated that he was too busy and pre-occupied to attend to the case to-day, as great feeling had been aroused by it, and he wished to do justice to all parties. Mr. Kirby accepting this condition of affairs, asked that the case be continued, but no special time set for its hearing, and if possible some amicable settlement might be effected.

THE HANDSOME SIGMA

Takes a Distinguished Party on a Lake Cruise.

Col. S. C. Reynolds' handsome yacht Sigma leaves to-day for an extensive lake trip with a distinguished party of New Yorkers and Toledoans. George Gould and wife will meet the yacht at Windsor. Those who go from here are Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Shoemaker, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Baker, Mrs. William Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Rathbun Fuller, and F. B. Stone, of New York.

THE PUT-IN-BAY SQUABBLE.

Answers and Petitions Filed in the United States Court.

In the United States court to-day were filed four answers to the Put-in-Bay railroad case.

The first is the answer of the Electrical Supply Co. to the Put-in-Bay Water Works, Light and Railroad Co.'s petition.

The second is the answer to the Industrial Mining Guaranty Co., in which Mr. Tillotson is accused of various alleged irregularities, including the diverting of money intended for the construction of the railroad to the erection of Hotel Victory.

The third is the answer and cross-bill of the Put-in-Bay Water Works, Light & Railroad Co. to J. K. Tillotson's petition.

John P. Carrothers has the fourth, and he insinuates that Mr. Tillotson misrepresented things to him relative to the railroad.

It is a much mixed muddle with Tillotson still on top.

SOMETHING TO THINK OF

When Attempting to Resist the Health Regulations.

Apropos of the existing prevalence of contagious diseases and the general inclination to disregard orders issued by the health board, it is interesting to study statistics connected therewith.

Since 1874 over 1,500 cases of diphtheria have been reported in Toledo, and of this number one-third have had a fatal termination.

When discussing the matter this morning Health Officer Fisher said that if families in which contagious diseases existed would observe certain regulations prescribed by the health department the mortality from such diseases would be materially lessened. "There are a great many people," said he, "who, for one reason and another, think they should be exempted from the operation of the sanitary regulations, and they therefore neglect, and, in some instances, refuse to comply with them. A great many object to having their houses placarded, and thus innocent visitors and neighbors are subjected to contagion. There is great need of reform in this direction."

HOLDING A REVIVAL.

The Australian Black at the Bartlett Street Church.

Rev. B. C. Black, the evangelist, now engaged in a series of meetings at the Bartlett Street church, is an Australian, 33 years of age. Seven years ago, on coming to the United States, he completed his education at the Kentucky university. Since then he has given his time entirely to the work of the ministry, serving in the capacity of pastor and evangelist. In the latter he has been very successful in all the meetings held. He is full of vitality and force, compelling the attention of his audiences from the beginning to the close of his sermons.

For a year he has been assisted in his work by Miss Jennie Harris, of Bryan, O. Miss Harris has the misfortune to be blind, but what she is deprived of in sight seems to have added charms to her in other respects. She is educated and refined, and has a voice of wonderful reach and compas. The pathos of her songs touch all hearts, and often melts her audiences to tears. She sings new songs readily, learning the air without difficulty and reading the words, which she writes, with her fingers, as rapidly as others do from the printed page.

The meetings will continue throughout the week, beginning promptly at 7:30 p. m. Miss Harris will sing two or three solos at each service.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Rather Quiet Session—Contracts for Wood and Coal Awarded.

The school board held another quiet and orderly session last evening.

Superintendent Compton stated that no teacher of penmanship had been employed this term for the reason that a teacher with a rapid system was wanted. He had been in correspondence with Charles R. Wells, of New York city, who is a teacher of rapid penmanship. Mr. Compton read from a letter just received from the gentleman stating that about three visits to Toledo would suffice to thoroughly instruct the teachers in the art of rapid penmanship. The board voted to employ Mr. Wells.

The clerk stated that a party in Philadelphia owned two $1,000 school bonds issued by this board, drawing 8 per cent., which he would sell. Schlingman made a motion, which prevailed, to purchase the bonds at par.

Superintendent Compton reported the schools all in good running order, but crowded, in spite of the fact that eight new schools have been established.

Mr. Edwards, the blind man who plays an organ on the street corners, was present and requested that he be allowed to keep one of his five children, a boy nine years of age, out of school, for three weeks to guide him about the fairs, which he desired to attend. On the recommendation of Truant Officer Disher the board granted the unfortunate man's request.

The building committee reported a schedule of bills amounting to $4,783.46, which were ordered paid.

Residents of the Seventh ward want a new school building, and the building committee will go out and look the matter up.

The finance committee reported the janitor's salary, $995.33, and teachers, $13,022.67, with a schedule of other bills, which were ordered paid.

The fuel committee reported J. N. Vlot, coal dealer, the lowest bidder on the winter's supply of coal, and Lawrence Buckhart for wood, which were as follows:

Soft coal, $2.50 per ton.
Hard wood, $4.75

Mr. Kohn wanted to know if all coal dealers had been given an opportunity to bid. The reason he asked was that one or two dealers had requested of him to be given a chance with the others.

The superintendent of buildings reported that he had notified four of the largest dealers. He said there were only one or two buildings and did not think it worth the while to notify all of the dealers in the city.

Mr. Kohn said the contract would not amount to much providing there would be plenty of gas. Otherwise, the coal and wood contract would be no small item.

The contract was then made, exclusive of the Parkland, Spring and new building in East Toledo, and any coal used at the other buildings will be contracted for separately.

DEMOCRATIC Congressional Convention

The Democrats of the Ninth Congressional District of Ohio, comprising the counties of Fulton, Lucas, Ottawa and Wood, are hereby notified to meet in convention in Bowling Green, Wood County, at 10 o'clock a. m.,

ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1892,

for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for congress to be supported at the November election.

The basis of representation in this convention will be one vote for every one hundred votes, and one for every fraction of 50 and over, cast for James E. Campbell for Governor in 1891. Upon this basis the several counties are entitled to the following vote in convention:

Fulton	17
Lucas	85
Ottawa	29
Wood	46

L. C. COLE, Secretary. W. J. COLBURN, Chairman.

Democratic Judicial Convention

The Democratic Judicial Convention for the nomination of a Common Please Judge of the First Sub-division of the Fourth Judicial District will be held at Fremont, Ohio, on the 29th day of September, 1892, at 10:30 o'clock a. m. The delegates to said convention are apportioned as follows:

Lucas County	85
Ottawa County	29
Sandusky County	35
Huron County	31
Erie County	38

GEO. B. BOONE, Chairman.
J. M'CRYSTAL, Sec'y.

Do not fail to read Grover Cleveland's masterly letter of acceptance.

The democrats are waking up in Pennsylvania and will make a good campaign even if they know they cannot carry the state.

Squared by Cleveland's interpretation the tariff plank of the Chicago platform continues to be a source of worriment to the republican party.

The slogan of Tammany is "the national ticket first, then the local ticket." That is a test of loyalty that is refreshingly new to New Yorkers.

The Chicago University is still taking the best talent from the eastern colleges and universities. Prof. Edward Capps, the talented instructor of Latin and Greek at Yale has just closed a contract to go to Chicago.

The almost unaccountable shrinkage of values at times never had more forceful illustration than the recent sale of property of Gov. Sprague's estate in Connecticut. What was once considered worth fully $2,000,000 sold under the hammer for $1,502.

It will be grievous disappointment to thousands of persons who expect to attend the dedicatory ceremonies at the world's fair next month to learn that only those holding tickets to the grounds will be admitted, the number being limited to less than 50,000.

The scoundrel who set fire to the residence of the Presbyterian minister in Middletown, Ohio, and came near burning up the family, ought to have an extra hot dose himself when Old Nick pokes him in the oven below.

Japan announces elaborate preparations to make a representative exhibit at the world's fair. They might put Sir Edwin Arnold in charge by brevet rank of one of the domestic departments. He is supposed to know all about Japan.

Michigan newspapers on both sides give evidence of political house warmings. The democrats are making a great fight for the whole state and while taking half a dozen electoral votes, certain, will also very likely elect their governor.

When Candidate Ashley seeks the labor vote several things will be apt to strike him forcibly and disastrously. He is much weaker now than two years ago. The people know him better. They do not like his methods and they will not elect him to congress.

Those newspapers that were positive Mr. Cleveland would not endorse the tariff plank of the Chicago platform can not say "we told you so." The candidate gives the plank hearty support and reiterates the declaration that taxation except for necessities of government is unconstitutional.

Amos Cummings, the distinguished democratic congressman, and one of the editors of the New York Sun, says the cities of Brooklyn and New York will give Mr. Cleveland the largest majority ever cast for any man, and that he will carry the Empire state by a rousing majority. So mote it be.

Ex-Speaker Kiefer, of Springfield, has been talking in Washington. He doesn't understand the politics of the year at all and is specially bewildered about Ohio. He thinks Harrison will carry the state but isn't certain. The expression of a doubt, even though it be implied, by a leader like Kiefer shows that the republicans are pretty thoroughly demoralized in Ohio.

Prince George has given a royal kick and proposes to select a bride without grandmotherly interference. Instead of making the betrothed of his dead brother the future queen of England George took a trip to Germany this summer, found a pretty cousin in the daughter of Ludwig, Grand Duke of Hesse, and she shall be the bride of the heir apparent. All the world loves a lover and good wishes will be with the prince who conducts his own matrimonial market.

Republicans are taking advantage of democratic dissension in Tennessee and think there may be a possibility of capturing the electoral vote for Harrison. There is just about as much, and no more, liability of that happening as there is for Pennsylvania to help elect Grover Cleveland.

It is lamentable that nearly every Arctic expedition has an aftermath of sorrow for loss of friends and accusations against survivors. The Greeley expedition was the subject of scandal and courtmartial. The Peary explorers of Greenland have returned without the mineralogist, Dr. Verhoeff. Peary says he is dead. Other survivors think he is dead. All are more or less reticient about the matter. The relatives of Verhoeff refuse to believe the story of his supposed death and believe he is with the Esquimaux and that he will push to the north with a native expedition of his own organizing. It may be hoping against hope, but it is the nature of all similar cases. Millions of money and hundreds of lives were sacrificed in the vain effort to find Sir John Franklin. Men who go to the far northward take their lives in their own uncertain hands.

AMERICAN METHODS IN MEXICO.

Even the ruler of Mexico has "caught on" to the American way of syndicating things for profit, and working the market for personal gain. From the City of Mexico comes the singular revelation that the late Garza revolution was a sham from beginning to end and that President Diaz was instrumental in bringing it about to break down the market for bonds that had been floated abroad. The scheme was successful, the bonds were dumped on the market, and the syndicate of plotters made several millions. It is a fishy story, but one of the profit sharers tells it and it goes for what it is worth. It is certain that Garza was never caught, and, except for a pretense to arrest him, nothing came of the Mexican movement to make his treason odious.

CLEVELAND'S LETTER.

Grover Cleveland does all things well. His statesmanship is in advance of the ability of average persons called statesmen, and he has the happy faculty of expressing in the plainest language the greatest truths and principles of government. His state papers were never prosy. In the letter of acceptance, published to-day, Mr. Cleveland stands so squarely upon ancient democratic ground, and so firmly for everything American that the blindest partisan opponent cannot fail to credit him with vantage ground in everything he advocates.

He is for tariff reform that will leave the bulk of the people's earnings in their own pockets.

He is radically and everlastingly opposed to the bayonet in politics.

He is for all the money that can worthily be bestowed upon the brave soldiers and sailors of the rebellion.

He is favorable to restricting immigration to the classes that will make good American citizens.

The letter is short, terse, unequivocal, right to the point, and in and of itself is as good a party platform as the democratic party ever presented for the commendation of the American people.

The letter contains bristling points that will be remembered long after election. Sentences and thoughts which he gives to the country will inspire the democratic speakers and furnish material for intelligent newspaper discussion.

Mr. Cleveland's letter will make him a still stronger candidate for the suffrages of the American people.

THE CAMPAIGN IN THE WEST.

We are all apt to judge politics according to our own surroundings and until one gets out of self he even hardly realizes how big a country and what a great world he is in. Here in Ohio we say there is no politics and we are constrained to believe the same lethargic state exists all over the country. This is a mistake. True, in some states, the old-fashioned hurrah campaign is not noticeable, but in states where there is doubt there is intense politics and lots of it. This is a hopeful sign for the democrats.

The headquarters of democratic work in the west was wisely established in Chicago, and the politician who goes to the western metropolis cannot fail to be impressed with the importance of this presidential campaign. The strength of the western campaign centers in the struggle in Illinois. When Judge Altgeld was nominated for governor many democrats were inclined to believe the national ticket would be used as trading stock for the purpose of electing the state ticket. It had that appearance for a time, but now all is changed. Judge Altgeld is making a masterly campaign. The best of the local argument is with the democrats and Altgeld is an able champion of a worthy cause. But he is working for Cleveland, and his closest friends urge everybody to vote for Cleveland even at the expense of the state ticket.

The methodical direction of democratic politics from Chicago headquarters is observable in Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska, and Minnesota. There is good politics and much of it all through the Mississippi region, and it will not be at all surprising if the electoral votes of several states west of Indiana shall be cast for Cleveland and Stevenson.

Politics is warming up all over the country and it is among the probabilities that Ohio will catch the fever within a week or two and round up with the liveliest kind of politics. Republicans profess great confidence in Ohio, because in presidential years it has so long been joined to its idols. Still, Ohio came near slipping away from the republicans in 1876 and 1880, and stranger things might happen in 1892 than for the electoral vote of the Buckeye state to be cast for a democratic candidate for president.

GAS TRUSTEES MEET.

An Effort to Trade Off Bonds For Pumps.

Discussing Means and Ways of Improving the Plant—A Quiet, Secret Session.

The gas trustees held a lengthy and secret session last evening. Reporters were barred.

A claim of Grasser & Brand's of $350, money advanced to build a line on Williams street, was ordered refunded.

The trustees had a quiet talk over the possibility of trading off bonds for pumps and negotiations are now pending with that end in view.

Negotiations are also pending for the purchase of new wells.

A small schedule of claims was allowed and the balance of the session was used in discussing means and ways for improving the plant.

Manager Heston said this morning that he had nothing to give the newspapers.

President Greene was not very communicative either.

"There was nothing but regular routine business," he said, "and the manager will give you that."

The manager would give nothing as there was but little to give.

THE BROER CASE

On Hearing Before Judge Millard in Probate Court.

Mr. Broer Telling of His Transactions

In An Apparently Straightforward Manner—Investments Made and How Made—The Inquiry Still On.

The examination of Barnhard H. Broer in aid of execution, was taken up in probate court this morning.

Mr. Broer, who was in the jewelry business on South St. Clair street, failed on August 18. His assets amounted to about $14,000, and liabilities a great deal more. A full statement of the details has appeared in the Bee from time to time. There is a fishing expedition to discover what became of goods purchased and not paid for, and not accounted for by inventory.

The investigation is being conducted by W. H. A. Read, who represents the Jewelers' association of New York city.

Sam Kohn is present in Mr. Broer's interest, although he has no right to examine a witness or make any defense whatever.

Mr. Broer being sworn, the business was commenced. In response to inquiry by Mr. Read, Mr. Broer stated that he had been in the jewelry business in Toledo for 21 years, that he lived in Brooklyn prior to that, but was not in business. As near as he could guess without consulting his books, his assets up to January 1, 1891, amounted to about $5,000. He owned the store property which he valued at $4,500, with $1,500 incumbrance, fixtures, $800, four lots in East Toledo $1,200, which were incumbered $500; 40 acress of land in Michigan, near Alpena, worth $700. This property he transferred to Goddard, Hill & Co., of Pittsburg, on a debt for jewelry. He said he could not estimate his total liabilities up to that time, neither could he tell whether there had been any change in his assets between January, 1891, and February 16, 1891. He had bought some goods, but no more than usual. He still made his annual sales at about $30,000. He said he did some wholesaling.

Mr. Read then questioned as follows:

Q.—"When did you commence to wholesale?"

A.—"This spring."

Q.—"Ever before?"

A.—"I made trades sometimes."

Q.—"When did you made the first trade?"

A.—"I don't remember."

Q.—"What other property do you own besides real estate, stock and fixtures?"

A.—"Patents."

Q.—"What patents?"

A.—"Well, a cuff-holder."

Q.—"How long an extension did you own in the cuff-holder in 1891?"

A.—"I owned it all."

Q.—"Did you manufacture it?"

A.—"No; I had it manufactured."

Q.—"Where?"

A.—"At Adelboro, R. I."

The examination then developed he had bought the patent two years prior to February, 1891, and that he had sold it out in April of 1891; that up to that time he had put from $12,000 to $15,000 in the cuff patent, which he purchased at different times.

Q.—"When did you buy the first interest?" interrogated Mr. Read.

A.—"Three years ago."

Q.—"What5 did you pay for it?"

A.—"I don't know."

"Q.—"Who did you pay it to?"

A.—"Harry Wade."

Q.—"What interest did you buy the first time?"

A.—"A quarter."

Q.—What did you pay for it in?"

A.—"Goods."

Q.—"What kind of goods?"

A.—"Diamonds and jewelry."

Here Mr. Broer related that he had kept no track of these outside deal in the books of his regular business, but in a private book. He said he would produce this book.

Q.—"You bought the first interest three years ago?"

A.—"Yes."

Q.—"When did you buy the next interest?"

A.—"I do not know the exact date."

Q.—"Who did you buy it of?"

A.—"Harry Wade, or through Harry Wade."

Q.—"Of who, through Harry Wade?"

A.—"A man named Patterson."

Q.—"Who lives in Mansfield?"

A.—"Yes."

He stated that this interest was paid for in goods. That he invested $800 for machinery to have the fastener manufactured, and that they had 500 gross manufactured. He did not know how much had been realized from the sale. He had not invested in any other patent right prior to February 16, 1891.

Mr. Broer stated that he purchased six East Side lots of a man named Herrick, who works in the Northwestern gas office in Toledo, and that he paid him $1,000 in diamonds and jewelry for the same. He was then questioned as to his liability and inventories, which developed nothing material.

"After February 16, 1891, and up to August 12, 1892, for what other purpose did you dispose of stock for?" queried Mr. Read.

A.—"To purchase a patent on a press deliverer."

Q.—"When did you make the purchase?"

A.—"I bought it at different times."

Q.—"When did you make the first purchase?"

A.—"I bought a quarter through Harry Wade in February, 1892."

Q.—"What did you pay for it?"

A.—"$4,000."

Q.—"What did you pay for it with?"

A.—"Jewelry and diamonds."

Q.—"Bulk of it diamonds?"

A.—"Yes."

Q.—"You entered this in your private book?"

A.—"I did."

Further questions showed that in the latter part of February he bought another quarter interest in the press deliverer, through Harry Wade, paying $5,000 in goods, mostly diamonds. In March he purchased the third quarter of Harry Wade, for which he paid $5,000 in diamonds and jewelry.

"Does Wade own the other quarter?" inquired Mr. Read.

A.—"No, sir; William Nichols owns it."

Q.—"How long has he owned it?"

A.—"We bought about the same time. I did not want to invest in the patent to keep it. Wade came to me and said if I had the whole business, he knew of a Chicago man who wanted to buy the patent and would pay $3,500. Nichols went to Chicago to investigate, and came back and said it was all right, so I bought the full interest."

Q.—"You sold the cuff patent?"

A.—"I sold it, but never recovered any pay."

Q.—"When did you sell it?"

A.—"In April, 1891."

Q.—"Who to?"

A.—"J. N. Clouse, of St. Louis."

Q.—"How much?"

A.—"Fourteen hundred dollars in notes and $500 in cash."

Mr. Broer then stated that he held the notes until last fall, when he released them for a quarter interest in a patent road cart which he owns yet.

Q.—"Who owns the balance in the road cart patent?"

A.—"William Nichols owns a quarter, and the remainder is owned by the inventor."

Mr. Broer stated that in 1891 he repurchased the patent cuff-fastener.

Q.—"Who did you make the re-purchase of?"

A.—"Of Clouse, through Harry Wade."

Q.—"What did you pay for it?"

A.—"I bought it at different times."

Q.—"How much the first time?"

A.—"One-quarter in October or November, 1891, for which I paid $3,000 in goods, which was taken out of the stock and given to Wade to give to Clouse."

His statement showed that another quarter was purchased of Harry Wade between November and December, 1891, at the same figure, which was paid for in diamonds taken out of stock.

The third interest, he said, was purchased in a similar manner, of the same person, the last of December, 1891, for $4,500 in diamonds, and that he bought the last quarter about two months before he failed. This he gave a note of $2,600 for, which has not been paid. He also claims that during May, 1892, he purchased an interest in the West bicycle patent of Henry Wade for which he paid $2,00 in goods.

"Now you have purchased mortgage notes. Where and how many are there?" questioned Mr. Read.

A.—"Three. First was a note for $750, which I bought of a man named Waters who travels for the Milburn Wagon works."

This was paid for in jewelry, he said. It also developed that the not was secured by mortgage on Kentucky land. The note was delivered to him, according to his statement, by Waters, accompanied by Herrick, through whom the deal was negotiated.

Mr. Broer stated the next note was purchased during the latter part of June, 1892 and amounted to $2,000. It was secured by mortgage on the same class of land that that deal was also made through Henich, who took him to Gavitt, the real estate lawyer's office, on Monroe street, the latter informing him that the record was all right. He said that Henich put in $450 in jewelry against his $1,550. The other note was purchased about 14 days later. He said a third party from Tiffin, whose name he could not recall, came to him and wanted the $2,000, but said he wanted a $1,350 note still out and that he would pay $50; that he could make $40,000 on the deal when he got all of the property.

Mr. Broer said he went to Cook at his office with Brady on Superior street and bought the $1,350 note. He does not know where Cook or the Tiffin man are, and has never heard from them since.

Mr. Broer said he sometimes disposed of goods to raise money to meet notes due, which led to Mr. Read's inquiring:

"When did ou raise money in this way last?"

A.—"This year some time, but I did not sell them myself."

Q.—"Who did sell them?"

A.—"William Cichols."

Q.—"How much did he sell the first time?"

A.—"About $500 worth."

Examination continued.

It developed that Mr. Broer gave Nichols diamonds and other stuff to sell at 25 per cent. below cost. He said Nichols never but once sold the goods for as much as he instructed him to. That h ealways instructed Nichols to raise the money on the condition that they could be redeemed, he believing, according to Wade and Nichols that he would soon realize enough on his patents to get him out of his trouble. He thought Nichols disposed of the goods in Detroit and Chicago, as he went there several times.

The court here adjourned for dinner. After dinner the books and accounts were produced and were examined.

It seems that Mr. Broer made a statement of assets and liabilities to the Jewelers' Board of Trade, in which he places his liabilities at $8,500 and assets at $21,000. Mr. Broer claimed on the stand this morning that he had figured his investments in as assets when he made this statement.

At 2 o'clock Mr. Broer reported without his books, and court adjourned until 4 o'clock to give him time to get them.

A POPULAR FALLACY OF PROTECTIONISTS EXPOSED.

In anticipation of the passage and the going into operation of the McKinley bill, importers rushed into the country best quantities of certain kinds of goods, especially English goods, and what are known as "plain fabrics," such as cashmeres, serges, etc. Many of these still lie on the shelves of our dry goods stores, unsold. They will not bring anything like the prices they were expected to bring. McKinley and his dupes tell us that the cause of this cheapness is because of the protective tariff, which has so encouraged home manufacturers of said goods as to cause competition amongst them, and, in consequence, to cheapen their productions.

This is the kind of stuff that is peddled about the country, and which deceives many because the real facts of the case are not understood. But see how a plain statement of facts exposes all this. The French and German manufacturers when they saw the condition of affairs, just stated, went to work to get up new and taking styles. These so pleased the ladies of the United States that they were bought, and the "plain fabrics" mentioned were given the "go by." But if merchants to-day, wished to import some more of those neglected and cheap goods, they would have to pay for them, as much more than it cost to buy them before the operation of the McKinley bill, as the addition to that price of the tariff tax upon them. Thus we see how facts upset one of the most popular and deceptive claims of the McKinleyites.

One word more: If the importers had only known that under the McKinley bill the foreigner was to pay the tax, they would have been saved from making such bad purchases, as they did before the bill went into operation. They could have said, "We don't care for the tariff tax inasmuch as the foreigner will have to pay it."

ABSOLUTELY PURE

AGAINST YARYAN.

Decision of the Treasury Department Issued.

As To Legality of What Is Known As the Wehrle Process of Fortifying Wines.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Mason has issued his decision in the case of H. T. Yaryan, of this city, wherein the Yaryan system of extracting alcohol and fortifying wines is decided to be at variance with the law.

Mr. Yaryan has received the following self-explanatory letter on the subject:

Treasury Department,
Office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue
Washington, D. C., August 30, 1892.

H. T. Yaryan, Esq., Toledo, O.

Sir: Your letter of August 10, relating to the matter of fortifying wine by what is known as the Wehrle process, is received. The letter of this office under date of August 9, advised you of the fact that the Wehrle machine as operated constituted a still and its operators distillers, and that by operating the machine they are subjected to the obligations and liabilities that attach to distillers.

You now say, "admitting that it is a still and the person using it to be a distiller, will you permit it to be used in the fortifying of sweet wines under conditions specified by act of congress," and you ask further, if we will so modify our regulations as to permit its use at the same place and by the same person as we would an ordinary still.

I apprehend that your purpose is, if you can be permitted to do so, to use the Wehrle machine for the purpose of manufacturing wine and fortifying the same with the alcohol which is brought into existence by the Wehrle process. It seems to me that it is a matter which cannot be controlled or determined by regulation of this office.

You have the right undoubtedly to qualify as a distiller, but when it comes to the practical matter of determining how and in what measure you will use alcoholic spirit created by your process, it is difficult, if not impossible, to arrange so as to protect the government on one hand, and accommodate you upon the other. The statute itself stands in the way, for it provides "that the wine spirits so used free of tax shall not be in excess of the amount required to introduce into such sweet wines in (an) alcoholic strength equal to fourteen per centum of the volume of such wines after such use."

It further provides "that such wine containing after such fortification more than twenty-four per centum of alcohol, shall be forfeited to the United States."

The law provides also how wine spirits may be withdrawn from bond.

The entire plan set forth in the statute is based upon the idea that the spirits and the wine are produced and kept separate and apart from each other until the same are measured and gauged by the proper officer, after which the union may take place.

It is impossible to carry out either the letter or the spirit of the statute by the operation of the Wehrle machine, which has always been claimed by you as a mode of making wine by a continuous process; that it to say, that the spirits are manufactured, the water taken out, and the spirits and residue of he wine united in one machine and by practically one process. No gauger would have the means of determining the amount of spirits going into the wine, or of carrying out any of the provisions of the McKinley bill upon this subject.

I cannot, therefore, see how the regulations made by this office can be modified or changed so as to meet your demand without a disregard of the provisions of the law, respectfully yours,

JOHN MASON,
Commissioner.

Mr. Yaryan agrees with the commissioner, but says it is the duty of the government to assist in modifying the law so as to allow the use of the Yaryan system.

LATE MARKETS.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 747,884 bu and at five other western points 896,854 bu; total 1,674,738 bu. On the corresponding Tuesday in 1891 the receipts at same points were 1,445,898 bu including 918,354 of northwest wheat leaving for the other five points 527,544 bu, compared with 890,854 bu to-day. Export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 81,408 bu and flour to an aggregate of 180,000 bu. English markets are a little better and firm for wheat and steady for corn.

London and Liverpool wheat markets have advanced in the past week. The opening quotation this morning in London for red winter wheat on the basis of $4.80 to the pound sterling, equals 85 1-4c bus. The Liverpool quotation on the same basis, equals 87c. The lowest water freight from here is 11c bus, and from Chicago 11 1-2c. The expenses besides freight are 4c to 5c bus. Of course it is seen that nothing but No. 3 wheat, or lower grades, are exportable on this basis. Exchange is now a little higher than $4.80 but not enough to cut any figure.

Our receipts of wheat to-day, while 40,000 bu less than last Tuesday, are still 157,764 bu in excess of the corresponding Tuesday of 1891 on the big crop a year ago.

This Tuesday the price of No. 2 soft wheat here was 98c.

We call attention to our analysis of receipts herein which show an unprecedented and interesting condition.

In this connection read herein what the Northwestern Miller says of the northwest movement.

The Chicago campaign to punish the shorts in wheat has had the advantage today of firmer English markets, but English quotations have no bearing on No. 2 wheat prices, as we have shown above. That grade of wheat can be kept up there, on tap, for short sellers to look at. As it was yesterday, so it is to-day, that the English firmness is the only bull factor of the day.

In Chicago October wheat closed at 74 3-8c a loss of 1-4c; December at 77 1-8c, May at 82 1-8c a loss on each of 1-8c; September corn at 46 1-8c a gain of 1-4c; October at 46 1-8c steady; October oats at 32 3-4c a loss of 1-4c.

In Toledo the trading in wheat futures has been very light indeed. There was no inducement to business and no outside orders of consequence, to buy or sell. Prices have averaged lower, opening about at yesterday's closing and making a loss at close of 1-4c on September, 1-8c on October, 1-4c on December, and 3-8c on May.

On the call October sold at 76 to 75 3-4c and closed at 75 7-8c. On the regular board September closed at 75 1-4c, October sold at 75 7-8c and closed at 75 5-8c; December sold at 78 5-8c and closed at 78 3-8c; May at 83 5-8c and closed at 83 1-2c. Cash wheat was very quiet and the trading was light in all grades. No. 2 soft sold at 75 1-4c and closed at that, No. 3 soft at 69c and closed at that, in L. S. at 70c. On the call December sold at 72 1-4c, rejected No. 1 all by sample at 64 to 69c, No. 2 by sample at 52to59c.

Corn—No 2 at 46 1-2c, October at 46 3-4c, No. 3 at 45 1-2c, No. 3 yellow at 47 1-2c.

Oats—No. 3 at 31c, rejected at 26 1-2c.

Rye—Rejected at 44c, No. 2 worth about 58 1-2 and No. 3, 53c.

Clover seed was about steady with a slight advance on cash seed. January advanced 10c. Prime for cash sold at $6.32 1-2, No. 2 at $6.32 1-2, January at $6.45 to $6.50, No. 2 at $6.15. Timothy sold at $1.85.

City Auditor's Office.

Toledo, O., Sept. 27, 1892.

The Committee on Ways and Means of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned invite sealed proposals at this office to at 7 o'clock p. m. for the purchase of Street Improvement Bonds to the amount of Five Thousand Nine Hundred and Thirty-nine 57-100 ($5,939.57-100) Dollars, bearing date October 31, 1892, and payable as follows: Five Hundred and Thirty-nine 57-100 Dollars on April 30, 1893, and Six Hundred Dollars at the expiration of every six months thereafter, to and including October 31, 1897, at the office of the city treasurer with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said improvement bonds are issued pursuant to section 2704 to 2707 of the revised statutes of the state of Ohio, and also under an Ordinance of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio. "To provide for the issue of Improvement Bonds to pay the cost and expense of the improvement of Lawrence avenue, from Bancroft street to Monroe street.—Passed Sept. 7, 1892.

The denomination of these bonds will be first payment one bond of $39.57-100 and thereafter one of $600 each payment.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the bonds, so bid for, as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the law and ordinances. When the bids have been examined, and the award made according to law, all monies or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the city auditor subject to his call except that of the successful bidder, which shall be held and considered, and accepted as part payment of the bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the city of Toledo, and shall become the property of said city, in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Proposals should be addressed to the Auditor of the city of Toledo, Ohio," and be indorsed "Proposals for improvement bonds."

A BUSH DUEL.

George Flower, a famous Australian mounted policeman, was sent to hunt up the notorious bushranger, Millighan. He met his man as a fellow-ranger, who supposed Flower to be dead. After some conversation the detective said:

"Now, suppose a thief-taker was to come upon you when you were alone, and was to challenge you to surrender, what would you do? Would you draw trigger at once and not give him a chance?"

"No," cried Millighan, "I'd tell him to stand off and fight for it."

"Millighan," said Flower earnestly, "are you speaking the truth?"

"Yes—so help me heaven."

"Now let us suppose," continued Flower, "that such a man as that fellow George Flower—the fellow that was drowned the other day—was to be in the same position with you as I am now?"

"I'd tell him," said Millighan, "that one of us must die, and challenge him to fight fair!"

"How fight fair?"

"Why, I'd ask him to measure off fifty yards—to walk backward five-and-twenty paces, and let me do the same!"

"And do you think he would do it?"

"Yes, I do—for he was a man! I have often wished to meet that fellow in the field; for what I most want in this life is its excitement; and to be killed by the hand of a man like Flower, or to escape by killing him in a fair fight—either way would be something to suit me!"

"Millighan," said Flower earnestly, "I believe every word you have uttered! Now listen to what I am going to tell you. I am George Flower."

Millighan started. He gazed on Flower, whose eye was now riveted on that of his adversary. Millighan's carbine dropped from his hand, but he did not change color or betray any alarm.

"Pick up your piece!" said Flower, pointing to the carbine, and assuming a proud and careless attitude. "I am all that you have said to me, Millighan! I might have shot you like a dog before I spoke to you just now; but I could not do that—for you are a man as well as myself, and you are as brave as generous! Pick up your piece and walk back five-and-twenty paces—but let us shake hands first!"

Millighan took Flower's hand and sighed heavily as he shook it.

"Do not surrender!" suggested Flower, half fearing that Millighan would do so, and break the very charm that bound him to the man.

"Surrender!" cried Millighan, with a smile and a sneer; "no—I'll never do that! And knowing you to be a brave foe, I have still a chance; for I shoot as straight as you do! But tell me in earnest—are you George Flower? Yes, you must be. But hear this"—his blood began to warm—"if you are not, we must fight this day—for we cannot after this live together!"

And Millighan took up his carbine, and satisfied himself that there was powder in the pan, and with his left thumb he pushed the corner of his flint round so as to insure ignition when he drew the trigger.

Flower placed his carbine against a huge stone; then put his hands into his pockets and looked at Millighan.

"I am George Flower!" said he; "and who but George Flower would deal with you as I do? Don't let us talk too much, or I may forget my mission and become a bush-ranger myself!"

And Flower took up his carbine and examined the powder in his pan, and touched the flint as Millighan had done.

"Flower—for Flower you must be," said Millighan, "grant me, if you shoot me, one desire that has haunted me! I do not dread death, but I have a horror of burial! If I fall, suffer me to lie on the very spot! Let the eagle come and feast upon my carcass, pluck these eyes from their sockets, and the skin from this brow! Let me lie here in this lonely region and let my bones bleach in the sun, and the rain fall, and the moon and stars shine upon them!"

"My God!" exclaimed Flower, seizing Millighan by the arm, "the same dread of being buried alive has ever haunted me! If I fall by your hand, let me rest here, with my head pillowed upon this gun! Let no man living be known the spot where I fell."

"Take your ground!" said Millighan. "I am ready."

"There is my hand!" said Flower; "and should we meet in another world, we shall not be ashamed of one another!"

Tears were standing in the eyes of both Flower and Millighan when they parted. Each stepped backward pace for pace; Millighan followed by his little terrier, Noodles. When they were about fifty yards apart they halted, and looked at each other for several minutes.

Both simultaneously leveled their carbines; but each was indisposed to be the first to fire. At last Millighan discharged his piece. He had aimed at Flower's heart. His bullet whizzed past Flower's head, and carried away part of the left whisker. Flower fired, and Millighan fell flat on his face. The ball entered his left breast. Flower ran to the spot, to catch any last word Millighan might desire to breathe; but Millighan was dead.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

The queen has been so much impressed with Sir Noel Paton's last picture, "Vade Satana," that her majesty has accepted the dedication of the plate and has ordered copies of the engraving for the libraries at Osborne, Balmoral and Windsor Castle. Sir Noel Paton's picture, "Vigilate et Orate," was recently purchased by the queen, and it hangs above the altar in the private chapel at Osborne.

Henry Mosler, whose artistic successes have lately won him the decoration of the Legion of Honor in France, is an American by birth. He was born in Cincinnati, and after studying art with James H. Beard became connected with Harper's Weekly, and did work on that paper during the war. Later he went to Dusseldorf to study, and thence removed to Paris. He has exhibited a number of pictures in the Salon.

Rev. F. B. Meyer, who has recently attracted much attention by his talks and other ministrations at Northfield, Vt., was called to the pulpit of the Regent's Park Baptist church in London, from Leicester, in 1888. Mr. Spurgeon advised him not to accept, as he would bury himself by so doing. He came to the British metropolis, however, and in four years was one of the foremost Baptist pastors there.

Prince Roland Bonaparte, whose wife's immense dowry was a part of the revenue from the gambling-house of Monte Carlo, will not marry again, it is believed. The prince now enjoys the benefit of this wealth, but is sensitive about the source from which it was derived. Indeed, it is said that he dropped the acquaintance of a lady friend who was so indiscreet as to solicit his influence at Monte Carlo in behalf of a young singer that was seeking an engagement.

GIVE THEM A CHANCE.

A Plea for the Children that Should Be Heeded.

As to keeping children too clean for any mortal use, I don't suppose anything is more disastrous. The divine right to be gloriously dirty a large portion of the time, when out is a necessary consequence of direct, useful, friendly contact with all sorts of interesting, helpful things, is too clear to be denied.

The children who have to think of their clothes before playing with the dogs, digging in the sand, helping the stableman, working in a shed, building a bridge, or weeding the garden, never get half their legitimate enjoyment out of life. And oh! unhappy fate, do not many of us have to bring up children without a vestige of a dog, or a sand-heap, or a stable, or a shed, or a brook, or a garden! Conceive, if you can, a more difficult problem than giving a child his rights in a city flat. You may say that neither do we get ours; but bad as we are, we are always good enough to wish for our children the joys we miss ourselves.

Thrice happy is the country child, or the one who can spend a part of his young life among living things, near to Nature's heart. How blessed is the little toddling thing, who can lie flat in the sunshine and drink in the beauty of the "green things growing;" who can live among the other little animals, his brothers and sisters in feathers and fur; who can put his hand in that of dear mother Nature and learn his first baby lessons without any meddlesome middleman; who is cradled in sweet sounds "from early morn to dewy eve;" lulled to his morning nap by hum of crickets and bees, and to his night's slumber by the sighing of the wind, the plash of waves, or the ripple of a river. He is a part of the 'shining web of creation," learning to spell out the universe letter by letter, as he grows sweetly, serenely, into a knowledge of its laws.—From "Children's Rights," by Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, in Scribner.

The spectacle is often seen of a man having wealth thrust upon him. Mr. Leroy Payne, of Chicago, knows that it is better to be born lucky than rich. Eleven years ago he leased a lot of ground on Michigan avenue for 99 years at a yearly rental of $2,500. Some time ago he sold his lease for $400,000.

A Frenchman has recently made important advances in the work of photographing colors. The shades of the objects, as well as their colors, are faithfully reproduced.

In ancient days, long before the advent of the first Knickerbocker, there may have been elephants in this country. An immense tusk of a mammoth has been taken out of the peat at Kings bridge, New York city, by one of the officers in charge of the ship canal in process of construction at that place. The tusk was discovered at a depth of 20 feet below the level of the sea.

Few people have any idea of the beneficial medical qualities of tar. In medicine it is valuable in chronic catarrh, it is of benefit in almost all kinds of cutaneous diseases, there is no better dressing for an ulcer, while tar water is an excellent tonic for debilitated persons, and the vapor of tar is a panacea for many forms of bronchial trouble. People will not use simple medicines, as a rule preferring something from the drugstore; but if such remedial agents as tar and other so-called "old woman's remedies" were more commonly employed men would enjoy better health.

A huge octopus, or devil fish, has been captured outside the Golden Gate, California, by some fishermen. It measured fourteen feet from the end of the body to the end of the longest tentacle, and has eight arms, and, as is usual with the fish, there are over eight hundred suckers on the arms. The body is nothing but a huge sack, and is soft and flabby; it is about two feet long. There are two eyes, about an inch in diameter, and a faint resemblance to a beak and mouth. This specimen is one of the best in the country, and will be preserved and sent to Chicago for exhibition at the exposition.

MENTAL INFLUENCES.

Power of the Mind That is Almost Incredible.

Some Astounding Statements that are Vouched for.

The Utilization of Forces Unknown in Earlier Times.

(From the Washington Post.)

"Look back of you three seats," said my friend Judge Goodspeed just before the limited express from Boston pulled out of the Providence depot. "You see that gentleman with glasses putting on his traveling cap?"

"Yes, I see him, he has a look between the eyes similar to that of Beecher, Bob Ingersoll and Edison. Who is he?"

"Well, sir, he is one of the best known men in New England, if not in the country. He is one of the most brilliant, brainy and remarkable men of his age."

By this time I was full of curiosity and wanted to know first who he was, and second all about him.

The judge, in a cool and contrary mood, replied: "I will first tell you about him, then I will tell you who he is. He is a young man somewhere about the forties. He is a practicing physician and enjoys, as is generally conceded, the largest practice of any physician in the world. In his university course he was admitted for the law, for medicine and the ministry, and a few minutes' conversation with him would satisfy you he was well qualified for either.

"As an orator he has no superior in the land. He is logical in his reasoning and irresistible in his appeals. He is the man of whom Hon. M. C. Kerr, ex-speaker of the house of representatives, said, 'he did not believe an American jury could be found who would hang a man if he had the opening or closing speech.' When he appears before the legislature for or against a measure it is a signal for a crowd that no hall in the state house could hold. He appeared against a measure before the Massachusetts legislature a few years ago. The bill was represented by the ablest counsel in the state. The committee were known to be favorable to the bill, with perhaps one exception. When the bill came up for hearing numerous counsel for the petitioners responded. Then this gentleman arose, and stepping forward, said: 'Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the judiciary committee, I appear for the remonstrants.' This remark was applauded for it meant to the audience an oratorical duel to the death. After the petitioners had presented their side of the case, and everybody thought the bill as good as passed, this gentleman for three hours argued against the bill. He presented his side of the case in such a light that it looked as though a disgraceful, infamous and outrageous law was being forced upon the state. His sarcasm at times was so severe that one felt pity for his opponent regardless of their feeling in the matter. One minute the whole house would be convulsed with laughter and the next every eye would be moistened with tears. Over many of his eloquent climaxes his bitterest opponents would cheer loudly, forgetting what they were doing. I need only add that the committee voted against the bill without any delay.

"I started out to say," continued the judge, "that he was as a physician disappointed and disgusted with the ordinary methods of practice that made a specialty of chronic diseases. He has broken away from the old methods, using, as he states, the good from every school and the good outside of all schools. He is a man of means, and consequently has everything that money can purchase to aid him in his practice. He has enjoyed an extensive practice, and had an extended and varied experience. He is a man of travel, research and broad education. His specialties are said to be cancer, consumption, tumor, paralysis, rheumatism, heart and nerve diseases. These he seems to treat with wonderful success, and his friends affirm that he will cure patients of these malignant diseases who are given up by other methods of practice to die.

"I have understood from the most reliable authority that he averages upward of 13,000 patients under his care all the time. He has several physicians in his employ, and all the facilities necessary for a great and extended practice.

"Young as he is, it is safe to say he is the highest authority in the east on chronic diseases. There is nothing higher in all this country. If he says a man will die he is pretty sure to die, but the hope for the sick man who goes to him lies in this, that he seldom thinks a sick man incurable, and to him they seldom are; when other physicians pronounce their cases incurable, he will take them and cure them in the most astonishing and miraculous way. Many people in New England believe his cures are miraculous—though he stoutly denies that they are anything of the kind—while he refrains from saying how he performs these most wonderful cures."

"But, judge, you have not told me who he is."

"He is Dr. R. C. Flower, of Boston."

"You don't mean to tell me that this is Dr. R. C. Flower, of Boston, who several years ago startled the world by curing, in apparently miraculous way, the president of the Pennsylvania railroad, also Joseph Jefferson, the great actor?"

"The same man."

"Why, I thought he was an old man!"

"Everybody thinks so."

"But how old is he?"

"I don't know. I told you I thought he was about the forties. He may be a thousand for aught I know, but he only looks like a boy."

"Well, Judge, how do you come to know so much about Dr. Flower?"

"Well, sir, I will tell you. There was a time I disbelieved everything I heard about him, being prejudiced, I presume against him, but I had a friend, one very near and dear to me, who was taken down with quick consumption. He was a man of ample means and tried the best physicians the world produced, but he grew worse rapidly. His physicians told him finally there was no hope for him—to set his house in order, that he could not live more than six or eight weeks at the best, and as most of his family had died with consumption, we accepted their opinion as the ultimatum. As a last resort, to pass away the hours of the death watch he went to see Dr. Flower. The doctor told him that it was his opinion that he could cure him, though it would take several months to do it. So favorably did the doctor impress my friend and his wife that they returned home believing he would get well, and, strange to say, that man, almost in the throes of death, a feeble skeleton, arose into health as if touched by a charmed sceptre, and to-day he is a well man.

Shortly after this occurrence my stepdaughter had a cancer come in her left breast. It developed very rapidly. Her family pysician sent her to a specialist in New York. He pronounced it malignant cancer, and that he could do nothing for her. She then visited Dr. Agnew, of Philadelphia, who told her husband that he could cut it out, but it would come again and that there was no cure for her. As a last resort she consulted Dr. R. C. Flower. The doctor told her he would rather not take the case.

"That means," said the woman, bursting into tears, "that you do not think I will get well."

This remark seemed to disturb the doctor. "Is your life of very great importance or consequence to your family?"

"I have a sick husband and four little girls—my God! To leave them without a mother and almost orphans, nearly kills me."

This was more than he could stand; big tears filled his large, gray eyes. "Don't cry, my poor child. I will cure you of this disease. I will stand between you and death until your children are grown. By the help of God and the power I possess, I will cure you."

He said this as if he meant it, and I guess he did, for at the end of nine months that woman was a well woman and has been so to this day.

About this time I joined a society for psychological and scientific research. Some of Dr. Flower's cures were so suggestive of the occult, and his examinations so strange that it was decided by our society to investigate his claims and practices. I was made the chairman of the committee appointed to make the investigation. After months of research we arrived at the following conclusions: First, that Dr. R. C. Flower possesses an intuitional power or gift which enables him to diagnose any person's disease in detail and accurately without asking any questions. Second, that he possesses an ability in the treatment of chronic diseases which is phenomenal. Third, that his methods are different from those of ordinary practice and peculiarly his own.

Here is what some of the most prominent people of the east say about Dr. Flower, being a part of our investigations:

Mrs. Mary E. Young, of 92 Harlow street, Bangor, Me., says on the 14th of December, 1891, my little girl was given up as incurable with typhoid fever. After every hope was abandoned, and she sinking through the last change, I telegraphed Dr R. C. Flower the situation and asked him to save her. He telegraphed that he would do so, that he would stand between my child and death, and for me not to fear—and he did—in the most wonderful way she improved, just as he said she would. We all feel that she was brought back to life. I don't know how he performed the cure, I only know he did so."

Hon. J. D. Hopkins, of Ellsworth, Me., a prominent politician as well as business man, said, "I regard Dr. R. C. Flower, of Boston, the most remarkable, brainy and brilliant pysician of this age. My wife and I consulted him some months ago, since which time we have been treated by him and cured. I need not go into the details of our troubles; they were serious but he has removed them. I can't say when I have felt better than I do now, not only cured but I seem to have returned to my youth. Dr. Flower cured a neighbor of mine in the same wonderful and marvellous way, when given up to die of a very ugly internal cancer. I know many of his patients and they all hold him in the same high esteem we do.

"When Mrs. Hopkins and I went to see him he told us our diseases in detail without asking a single question. It is just as easy for him to read the inside of a man and tell him all about himself as it is to read a book. It would seem that his ability to thus examine his patients was nothing less than a divine gift."

Dr. Brooks, of Brooks & Evans, a prominent dentist of Portland, Me., said: "I am an admirer of Dr. R. C. Flower. I consider him the ablest physician of the age. Why, sir, he can tell a sick person his disease without knowing anything about him or asking him a question, just as easy as he would read his name. He has most successfully treated and cured me of a very serious and dangerous internal trouble which threatened not only my immediate health, but life. I was almost incapacitated for work, was wasting away and rapidly losing my strength. Under his treatment I sprang into health, have gained in strength and flesh, and am now young again. Dr. Flower is to me a marvel, an unsolved wonder. He is the most fascinating and genial man you ever saw. He is quick and brilliant, and it makes one feel well and young to talk with him."

Mrs. Fry, of 198 Oak street, Lewiston, Me., said: "You see that little girl. For several years she was troubled with a growth in her nose which had been gradually filling it up. We frequently had to have it partially removed so she could breathe. The last year it grew rapidly worse and assumed a malignant phase. We were advised to have an extended operation as the only thing that could save her health and life, and with no certainty that it would be successful. Dreading such an operation, my husband took our daughter to Dr. R. C. Flower. The doctor looked at the child a moment, put his hand on her nose, then turning to her father said: 'Your child will get well now; she will never have any more trouble.' And sure enough," continued Mrs. Fry, "this monstrous diseased growth faded away, entirely disappeared, and the little girl has been in perfect health ever since."

Some six years ago Dr. Flower permanently cured Mrs. John L. Horne, of Norway, Me., of an internal fibroid cancerous growth, after the second operation, and she had been pronounced incurable by the leading physicians of Portland, Boston and New York and had gone home to die. The Horne family are so prominent in Maine that a cure like this speaks well for the ability of the physician.

Several years ago Mrs. A. G. Thompson, of the Fifth Avenue hotel, New York city (now of Pittsfield, N. H.), was treated and cured by Dr. R. C. Flower of a blood trouble, of which the leading specialist of New York city said it was not only incurable but that no human power could give her relief. She has been in perfect health ever since.

In the same wonderful way did Dr. Flower cure Mrs. Bond, wife of Hiram Bond, a prominent manufacturer of Haverhill, Mass., after she had been pronounced incurable by the leading physicians and surgeons of Boston, and after unsuccessful operations.

Ex-Gov. Bishop, of Cincinnati, says: "Dr. R. C. Flower is the greatest physician on this earth. If there is such a thing as a man being inspired, he is. You cannot talk to him without feeling better. He cures the most desperate cases in a mysterious and wonderful way."

Hon. J. Willard Rice, of Boston, brother of ex-Gov. Rice, says: "Dr. R. C. Flower is the most interesting and fascinating gentleman I ever knew, and is the greatest doctor in this world. I have known him to cure several in the most wonderful and speedy manner, when by other physicians they were pronounced incurable and in the throes of death."

A. A. Rowe, Esq., a prominent business man of Boston, was cured eleven years ago by Dr. R. C. Flower in a speedy and almost instantaneous manner of nervous prostration when all hope of his restoration had been abandoned. He has enjoyed good health ever since.

Dr. Flower removed from the breast of Mrs. Brewster, of 20 Thompson street, Springfield, Mass. (her husband is a prominent business man of New England), 10 years ago, a monstrous cancer without the knife, and without drawing blood. No sign of the disease since, and the woman in perfect health.

F. N. Turner, of New Britain, Conn., says: "I had been given up to die by five physicians, who pronounced my disease incurable consumption. I was directed to Dr. R. C. Flower by a young lady whom he had cured. As soon as he saw me he went back into my life and told me all the phases of my trouble. When I went to him I did not expect to get well, but when I left him I felt in my soul that I should be cured. He inspires the sick with hope, as nobody else can. Well, I placed myself under his treatment, I began to improve at once, and in a few months was well."

Mrs. Edwin Norton, of Essex, Conn., says: "Dr. R. C. Flower cured me of the most dreadful stomach and heart trouble woman ever had, also of nervous prostration. I had been a dreadful sufferer for over 12 years, had doctored with numerous physicians without benefit. Began to improve immediately under Dr. Flower's treatment and in a few months was cured."

"A wonderful array of testimony I must admit, judge."

"Yes, sir," replied the judge, who had settled down to read his book. "The evidence is unanswerable, sufficient to acquit or convict in any court in the civilized world."

"But, Judge Goodspeed, I see these people say that Dr. Flower can tell any one his trouble without asking them a question."

"Certainly he can; that is just what I have been telling you."

"Do you suppose he could tell me my trouble without asking me any question?"

"Certainly he can."

"I believe I will ask him to examine me."

"I should advise you not in a public car."

"Well, I am going to ask him, anyway. He never saw me, and it would be a great test if he could do so," and without waiting for the judge to introduce me I touched the doctor on the shoulder and said: "I believe this is Dr. Flower."

"That is my name."

"I have been told, doctor, that you can tell a person his trouble without their telling you anything? I have a difficulty, and would like to have you tell me."

"I guess it is curiosity," was his reply as he slowly raised his eyes up into my face.

"I assure you, doctor, it is not curiosity. I am in dead earnest."

Taking my hand in his for a moment he said: "Young man, some years ago by your prodigal or fast life you injured yourself; the disease settled in your left hip, and whenever you are tired, or take cold, you become lame and suffer severely in that hip. This happened," he continued, "about 14 years ago. Since then you have lived a proper and beautiful life, and it is unfortunate that you should suffer so much for that youthful indiscretion." By this time I was fairly shaking, for everything he had told me was true. "Anything else the matter with me?" "Nothing;" and this was true also.

"Do you know who I am?" I asked.

"Certainly not," was his reply, as he fixed his eyes sternly upon me, and then said, "If you stand there much longer I will know who you are. You are a newspaper man, I would say."

"You are right; but how did you know it?"

"You have a newspaper pulse," was his careless reply, as he turned to his book. "Good afternoon, sir."

"I will give it up, judge," I said. "That man is a supernatural wonder. You have investigated him, tell me a little more. Where do his patients come from?"

"From every section of this globe."

"Is he high in his charges?"

"I should say he was, but you know such talent and skill will always command high prices. He would not have to doctor any one but millionaires if he so wished, for the wealthy who seek him are without number, but he is very considerate to the poor. I have known of his receiving thousands of dollars for one consultation, and I have known of his giving the most important consultations for nothing. I presume he does as physicians and lawyers generally do in such cases.

"What is a few hundred dollars when a man's life is in the balance. I am glad for the sick world that there is a Dr. Flower, and I hope for the sake of the suffering he may live long to carry on his good work.

"I think it is safe to say as the result of the thorough and scientific investigations made by our society of all chronic incurables who go to him that Dr. Flower will cure fully ninety per cent. I don't know how he does it but I know that he does.

"Dr. R. C. Flower has a brother, Dr. A. H. Flower, who is fast becoming famous. They are associated together, but are never both away from the office at the same time.

"His younger brother, B. O. Flower, is editor of the Arena, that able and progressive Boston Magazine.

"The brilliant and fascinating elocutionist and humorist, Elizabeth Flower Willis, is his sister. She has recently forged to the front, and by critics of the stage is pronounced the greatest humorist of the day. Dr. Flower's father has been for years a distinguished clergyman. So you see the entire family are the representatives of brains, skill and progression. If you would know more of Dr. Flower I advise you to send to his office, 550 Columbus avenue, Boston, Mass., for a phamphlet he has published entitled 'Health.' It will only cost you a two-cent stamp. If you are really sick it will do you a world of good. If you are not sick, it will show you how to preserve your health."

Just then the porter called out New York, and my conversation with Judge Goodspeed ended, he going to his hotel while I hastened across the city to catch the Washington flyer, and to think over what had just past—the most wonderful experience of my life.

A RELIGIOUS WAR.

An A. P. A. Outbreak in the West.

A Lecturer With Two Revolvers Causes a Riot and Much Bloodshead.

Denver, Col., Sept. 27.—A Cheyenne, Wyo., special to the News says: T. J. Lyons, editor of the St. Joseph American, of St. Joseph, Mo., attempted to lecture here on "Romanist Influences in Public Schools."

He had received an intimation that trouble would ensue if he carried out his intention, and when he appeared on the platform he exhibited two six-shooters, which he said he would use if necessary to protect himself.

There were about 500 people present, many of them being Catholics.

He was frequently interrupted during his lecture, and at last he called upon the policemen and ushers present to clear the hall. Amid a scene of wild confusion this was partially accomplished.

When nearly all the people had gone out Lyon took a revolver in each hand and started to leave the hall. As he reached the door a policeman attempted to disarm him. The crowd closed in upon the two and Lyons commenced shooting. The firing became general and fully 30 shots were fired within a few seconds.

Patrick Moore, a boiler maker, was shot twice, one of the bullets passing through his body, inflicting a probably fatal wound. Policeman Nolan was stabbed in the face and neck, receiving two serious wounds. The shooting scattered the crown, and Lyons with a bodyguard of friends reached his hotel.

An excited crowd of men threatened to lynch him, and followed and surrounded the hotel. Sheriff Kelly arrested Lyons in his room and took his revolvers from him, after which he was taken to Fort Russell for safe keeping. The excitement over the affair was very great, and crowds of men gathered on the street corners discussing the matter. Lyons is supposed to have come here under the auspices of an anti-Catholic organization which exists in that city. It is not known who did the stabbing.

NEW GRADES OF WHEAT

Important Meeting Being Held in Chicago.

Review of Trade in Various Places.

What the Products of the Farm Bring in the Markets of the World.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The state board of railroad and warehouse commissioners is holding a special session in this city today for the purpose of considering important changes in the inspection rules which have been urged upon its consideration by prominent members of the board of trade.

Among other things it is proposed that a grade of No. 1 Northern spring wheat be established to be sound and well cleaned, and to contain not less than 50 per cent. of the hard varieties of spring wheat.

It is also recommended that all "new" grades of wheat and all other kinds of grain be abolished, that the word "new" be dropped in the inspection of corn, and that the status which existed before the present rule was established be restored. It is probable that these recommendations will be adopted.

British Grain Trade.

London, Sept. 27.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: The deliveries of English new wheats are increasing. Wheat of that class is held for 29s per quarter. The yield being under the average per acre, it is hoped that by selling last year's produce of the corn during October and November to impart firmness to the trade. Millers expect to find 200,000 quarters salable weekly at 30s level. Foreign wheats are rather better. California is steadier both in London and Liverpool. Cargoes of American red winter are quoted at 27s 6d. American flour sells at an average of 20s. The highest price paid is 26s. Barley and oats are quiet. American corn sells at 23s. Peas and beans are steady. At to-day's market English and foreign wheats were a shade firmer, though New England wheat was less in favor, being softer than was expected. Flour was dull. Malting barley was firm. Both flat and round corn were 3d cheaper. Beans, peas and rye were firm.

TWENTY-THREE AND FORTY.

An Odd Wedding at Whitelaw Reid's Farm.

New York, Sept. 27.—The marriage of Ella Spencer Reid, neice of Whitelaw Reid, and Judge Ralph Chandler Harrison, was solemnized at Ophir farm at Rye, Whitelaw Reid's country seat, at a half hour after noon to-day. Only a few of the friends of the two families were present.

Miss Reid has been a member of her uncle's household for several years, and was his favorite neice. She is a cripple, and in consequence he has been particularly devoted to her.

Judge Harrison is a native of California where he stands high. The couple first met a few months ago when Miss Reid was visiting the Pacific coast. The bride is twenty-three years of age, while the groom is about forty.

DISARMED THE GUARDS.

Convicts Make a Break for Liberty in Texas.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 27.—At a convict camp six miles west of here yesterday "Commodore" Miller and 12 other prisoners disarmed the guards and escaped, taking with them the guns of the guards. An alarm was given and a detachment of deputy sheriffs and police started in pursuit of the fugitives. Last night a hundred armed and mounted men were pursuing the convicts, but up to a late hour none of them had been recaptured.

MINISTERS ASSIGNED.

The North Ohio Conference Appointments.

The Business Transacted at the Closing Session.

Elyria, Sept. 27.—The North Ohio conference of the M. E. church closed its session here to-day. The closing meeting was opened with prayer by Dr. J. E. Stubbs. The statistical secretary read his report, and then reports were made on the episcopal fund, Lakeside, Sunday observance, periodicals, Sunday schools, tracts, district conference, records, missions, temperance, deaconesses' homes, and the Cleveland Church Extension society. Resolutions were adopted thanking Bishop Newman for the manner in which he presided, and complimenting the people of Elyria on the manner in which they entertained those who attended the conference. Dr. Baldwin presented the claims of the American University. Chaplain Colley was elected conference secretary to raise funds for Lincoln Hall, of the American University. A STORY OF ANTIETAM.

How General Longstreet Fired Two Shells at General McClellan and How the Compliment Was Returned.

Perhaps entitled to be considered the greatest of ex-confederate veterans, Gen. James Longstreet has figured personally in many thrilling scenes. One of his peculiar distinctions is that he was the only corps commander on either side during the war to serve artillery with his own hands in an emergency. The incident referred to is part of the unwritten history of Antietam.

Another historic figure in the narrative is Gen. George B. McClellan, at whom two of the cannon shot, fired by Longstreet's own hand, were directed. It was only known at the time that the human target in federal uniform was some officer of considerable prominence. Gen. G. M. Sorrell, now living in New York, president of the Ocean Steamship company, Savannah and New York, is a living witness of the occurrence. Gen. Robert E. Lee and Gen. D. H. Hill were interested spectators and had special reason to remember it. Perhaps there are also living some members of Gen. McClellan's staff to corroborate the narrative.

Longstreet, born a soldier, graduated at West Point, experienced by years of active duty in the Mexican war and in other service as an officer of the regular army, was an excellent artillerist, sighting a cannon with as much precision as a pistol or musket.

At the battle of Antietam, of Sharpsburg, McClellan sent a strong force against an unoccupied portion of Longstreet's line. The latter was quick to notice this movement. Calling to Gen. Sorrell and Captain Latrobe to follow him, Longstreet galloped to the gap in his line toward which point the federals were advancing rapidly. Two cannon had been left there, almost the entire crew of both guns dead or lying desperately wounded. Longstreet instantly dismounted and, with the aid of Sorrell and Latrobe, wheeled the heavy pieces into line, double shotted them and trained them on the advancing federal line. Longstreet sighted both pieces and jerked the lanyards with his own hands. The effect was terrific. Both shots went true, mowing great gaps in the federal line. The pieces were loaded and trained rapidly, so that again and again the advancing line of federals was broken and momentarily halted, giving time to accomplish what Longstreet had in view—the re-establishment of his own line, concentrating at the point of attack.

Noticing a group of Union officers watching the fight from a distant hill, Longstreet elevated his two pieces and fired at them. The shells went just above the group, in which was McClellan, scattering them immediately. Unknown then to the confederate officers, McClellan sent post haste for one of his best batteries.

A few minutes later Lee and Longstreet were conversing on a high hill to the east of Sharpsburg, near the point from which Longstreet had been firing. While these two were talking Gen. D. H. Hill rode up, bringing a message to Lee. Longstreet advised Hill to dismount, as his conspicuous appearance on horseback might draw the federal fire. A few seconds later a puff of smoke drew their attention for the first time to the federal battery which McClellan had just posted. The shell, aimed at Lee and Longstreet and Hill, was well directed. Lee was on one side of Hill, his hand resting on the bridle of the latter's horse. Longstreet was on the other side of the horse, a few feet away. The shell struck Hill's horse, cutting off both legs just below the knees. The poor brute fell to his knees and remained in that position, with his back at an awkward slant, while Hill was making vigorous and very ludicrous, because necessarily awkward, efforts to dismount. He first threw his legs in the usual fashion over the cantle of the saddle, but in his haste came near toppling forward over his horse's head. Lee and Longstreet both laughed heartily at Hill's position and hastened to help him dismount. Hill, throwing one leg over the pommel of his saddle, dismounted without help, and then joined in the laugh at his expense.

The same shell from McClellan's battery, narrowly missing Lee and Longstreet and killing Hill's horse, went on its way of destruction, exploding just over a confederate regiment behind the hill, killing and wounding a considerable number of men.—New York Herald.

BRUIN AS A BRAKEMAN.

A Lively Time on a Freight Train on the Pocono Mountains.

"When I was running a coal train over the Pocono mountains, from Scranton to Washington, N. J.," said an old Delaware, Lackawanna & Western coal conductor to the New York Sun, "I had a queer experience on a cold, moonlight night, about the middle of December. We left Scranton between 10 and 11, and we had to take on a car of Christmas trees at Tobyhanna Mills station. I had a can of cider in the caboose, and just before we got to Tobyhanna I stuck a poker in the stove so as to have it red hot by the time we had taken on the car of trees. Then I was going to stick the poker in the cider and drink the cider while it was hot. The train of loaded coal cars was cut loose from the caboose some distance below the depot, and I swung both doors of the caboose wide open and followed the train up to the switch. Then I ran along the track to get up a circulation, and when the train got under good headway on the upgrade I ordered the brakeman to come in and jumped on the hind platform of the caboose.

"The moment I stepped inside the door a tremendous big bear made a dash at me from the right side of the caboose, growled at me like a mad dog, struck at me, and came within an ace of knocking me against the railing. He was licking his chops, and the lamp in the caboose enabled me to see at a glance that he had dipped over my can of cider and had been making a meal off the contents of my dinner can. The bear's dash and growl came on me so suddenly that I smashed my lantern over his head without thinking what I was doing, and the blow snapped the bear as though he had been shot. The glass cut him some, the oil got in his eyes, and he was so much surprised that he wheeled like a flash and made for the front door. He looked from side to side as he struck the platform, and when he saw that the caboose was moving pretty fast he stood still long enough for me to grab the poker out from the stove and hit him on the rump with the red-hot end of it. The hot iron singed his hair and burned a streak in his hide, and with a cry of pain he sprang on the car of Christmas trees and went to rolling and thrashing among the green boughs.

"The rear brakeman was coming toward the caboose on the car ahead of the tree car, and when I sang out that a bear was tumbling in the trees, the breakman swung his lantern and yelled at the bear. The other brakeman soon joined him, and the two began to throw chunks of grate coal at the big black brute. At first the bear paid no attention to the flying coal, but the chunks came so thick and fast after awhile that he jumped up, grabbed a small spruce tree and started after the brakemen. They retreated toward the engine in good order, and the bear chased them to the fourth car, where he stuck the butt of the tree in the coal and crouched behind it. As soon as the brakemen saw that the bear had halted they fired more coal at him. It was upgrade all the way; there was no need of the brakes, and, desiring to see all the fun there was, I ran to the second coal car and sat on the brake. The bear stood the fusillade till several chunks of the coal had struck him, and then he picked up the tree and chased the brakemen over three cars more, where he again planted the tree in the coal and got behind it.

"When I saw that the bear had chased the brakemen to the engine I ran out on the tree car, having made up my mind to stop the train and drive the bear off before we struck the down grade, a mile or so beyond. While I was thinking of this the bear became greatly agitated all of a sudden. The brakemen were on the engine and the bear ran back and forth on the second car, looked over the edge of the car, and acted as if he was going to jump off.

"He was afraid to take the chances, and all at once he sprang to the brake, grabbed it with his paws, and turned it like a man till he had set it as tight as he could. Then he skipped to the car behind and set the brake, going from that to the third and fourth cars, where he did the same. On seeing what the bear was up to, the engineer shut off steam, and by the time the bear had set the brakes on the sixth car the train came to a stop, and just before we got to Pocono Summit station the bear backed down the side of the car as cool as you please, waddled into the brush on the south side of the track as though nothing had happened, and pointed toward Hauges Hill. The bear had ridden five miles with us, and, although he had gobbled my supper and cider, I wasn't a bit sorry that he had taken possession of the train and run it to suit himself."

FOR OVER FIFTY YEARS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The skilled toymakers of Nuremburg receive astonishingly low wages. The girls make 5 cents an hour, while the boys average only 2 cents and skilled men receive 8 cents an hour.

Ladies are greatly benefited by the use of Angostura Bitters, the South American tonic of Dr. J. G. B. Siegert & Sons. Ask your druggist.

In China the cobbler still goes from house to house, announcing his approach with a rattle, and taking up his abode with the family while he accomplishes the necessary making and mending.

THE Stevens Filter Co.'s
CHOLERA PREVENTIVES!

It is a fact well known to physicians who are familiar with the history of cholera epidemics of 1835 and 1854, that the disease was peculiarly fatal in the lime stone districts of the country, where the inhabitants drank water from wells. It was proven by a leading physician in a Southern city that not a single family who used filtered cistern or river water suffered from the disease. Health Office Fisher when he advised the citizens of Toledo to quit using well water struck the keynote of cholera sanitation.

In certain eastern mills children work seventy hours a week facing placards which read: "No laughter permitted in this mill. Children who sing will be discharged." Childhood robbed of its laughter!

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

Even to this day certain communities of Buddists and Mohammedans pray by the hour before their favorite plant or flower. In India this species of worship seems to be the most prevalent.
